Jennifer Smith

Hi ya Jenny,
I'm really glad we got to know each other this year, too bad it was so late in the year. You're really sweet & it's so nice to be able to look at someone's face to face when I'm talking to them. TEE HEE. Well, my hand keeps shaking so I can't really write any more.
Love ya!!

Jenny,
I love ya!! you've been such a good friend to me through it all - our friendship means so much to me. Thanks for all the support you shown me through soccer - sorry I wasn't any good. One of these I'll evolve into an awesome soccer player like you!
you can come watch lets stay in touch for

P.S. Keep Festin'

Jenny,

It was really tough finding space in here to right (wrong) write. I enjoyed your great personality and all-around fun attitude through the whole year. You could bring a smile to anyone's face. Congrats on a great soccer season. You are a really good player. Good luck in the future and have a great life.

Love Ya,

Kadets Are Quality

A brand is an impression that never goes away. In the past 26 years, AAHS has left its own personalized brand on its students, faculty, and community--an imprint of special memories and golden moments.

AAHS is a distinctive brand, an impression of lasting quality that has burned into its surroundings a fiery AAHS pride. This lasting quality will never go out of style. Like a good pair of blue jeans, AAHS is a tough, comfortable old friend. Since the building of Rampart, Air Academy's sister school, AAHS has been "shrinking to fit" its new smaller environment. Because of this decrease, AAHS students have become much closer and have gotten to know themselves, their classmates, and their school much better. The split between the schools was caused by the tremendous growth and change in the community. The new McDonald's has become a favorite spot for students' lunches, and the three new shopping centers have increased convenience and selection range for shoppers. The overall effect of the split is positive. AAHS is a smaller school, but its students make up for its size with their Kadet spirit and Kadet pride. And with this pride comes the knowledge that AAHS is The Right Brand.

After many years of use, this helmet indicates that the Kadet brand of pride is still going strong.

These pictures, taken by Mr. Larry Perkins, show the growth in Briargate between the months of May and September of 1982.

Pride in Air Academy High School brings smiles.

A Brand New Rivalry

The spirit of competition between Air Academy and Rampart rose to a new height before the first football game between the two schools. Athletic rivalry burned between the Kadets and the Rams, and the students proved their loyalty to their respective teams with a burst of school spirit. Cars were decorated, posters covered the walls, and Kadets wore Rampart's colors with black armbands to mourn the defeat of the Rams. To Air Academy, the game was definitely "a matter of pride." On the night of the game, the stadium was filled with fans, and the Kadet "rowdies" were in rare form. The tremendous support shown by the loyal fans paid off as the mighty Kadet football team soundly defeated Rampart 25-7.

Lori Hefley and Lee Vinson cheer on the awesome Kadets to another victory.

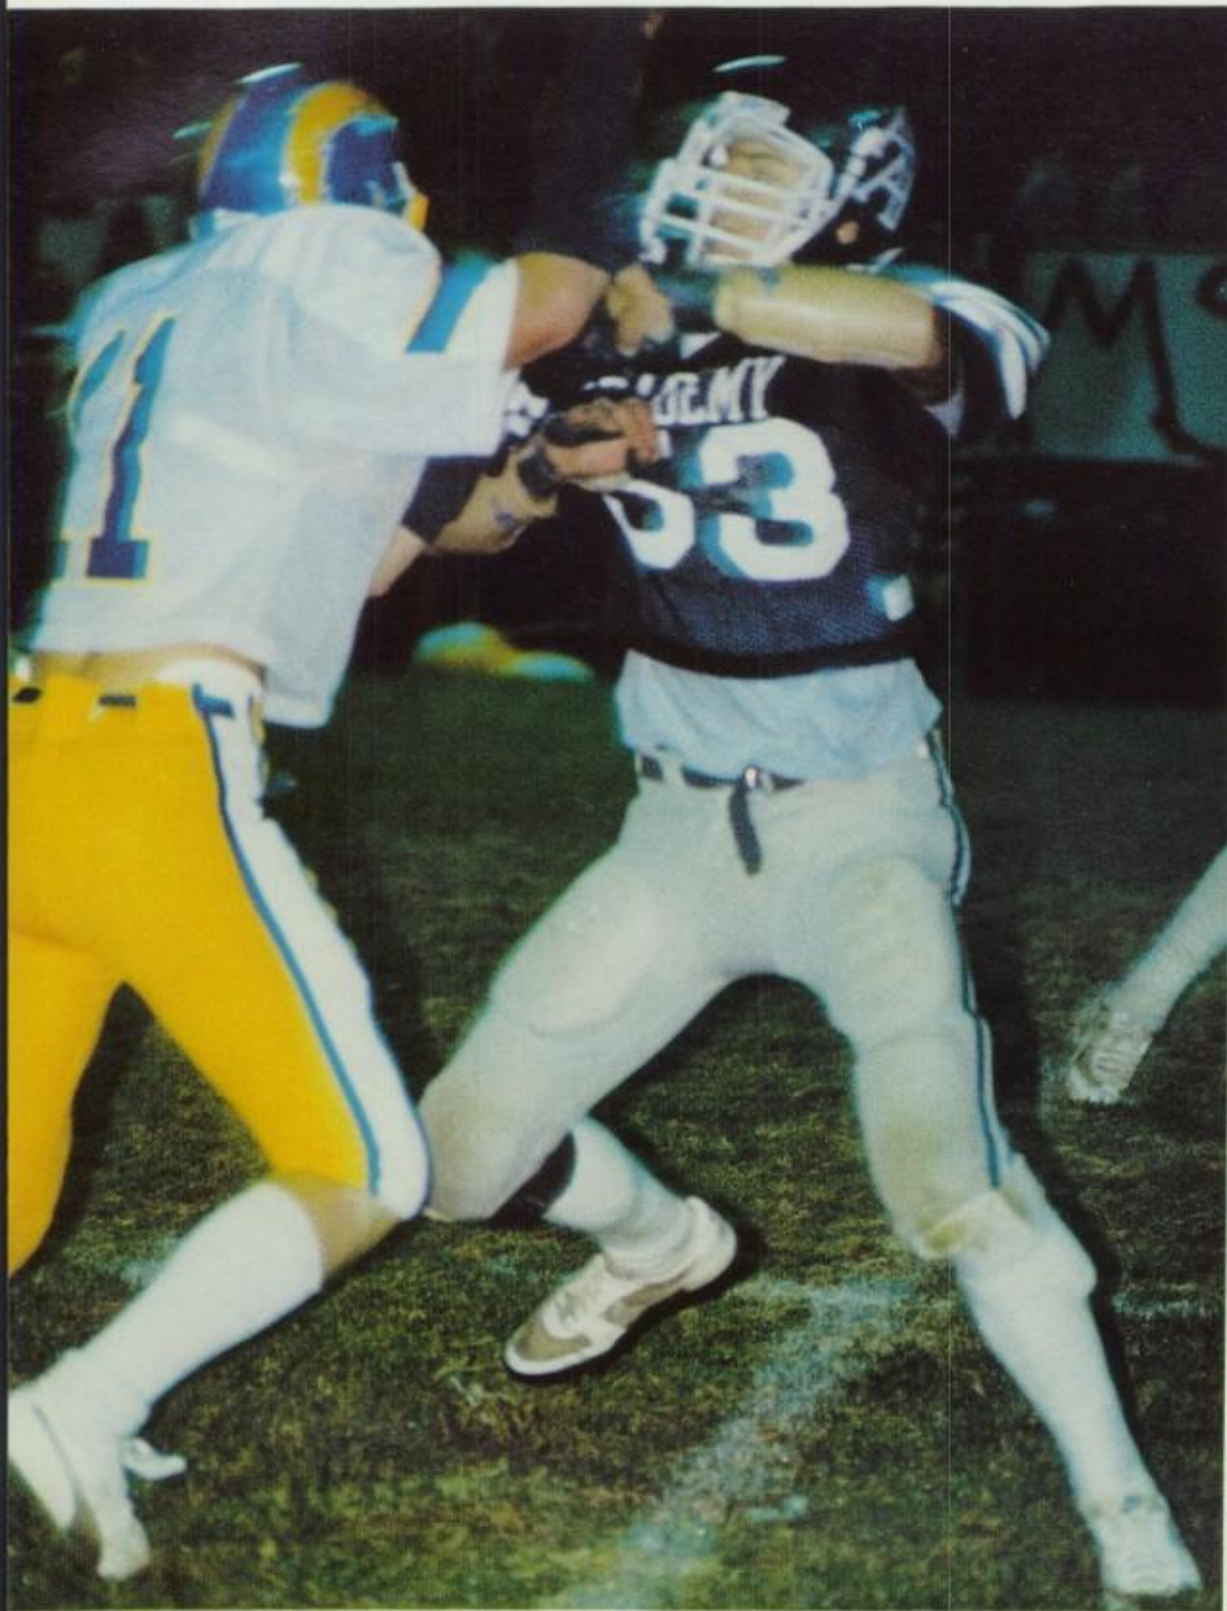

Dan Finnerty leaves the field after another Kadet play against the Rampart Rams.

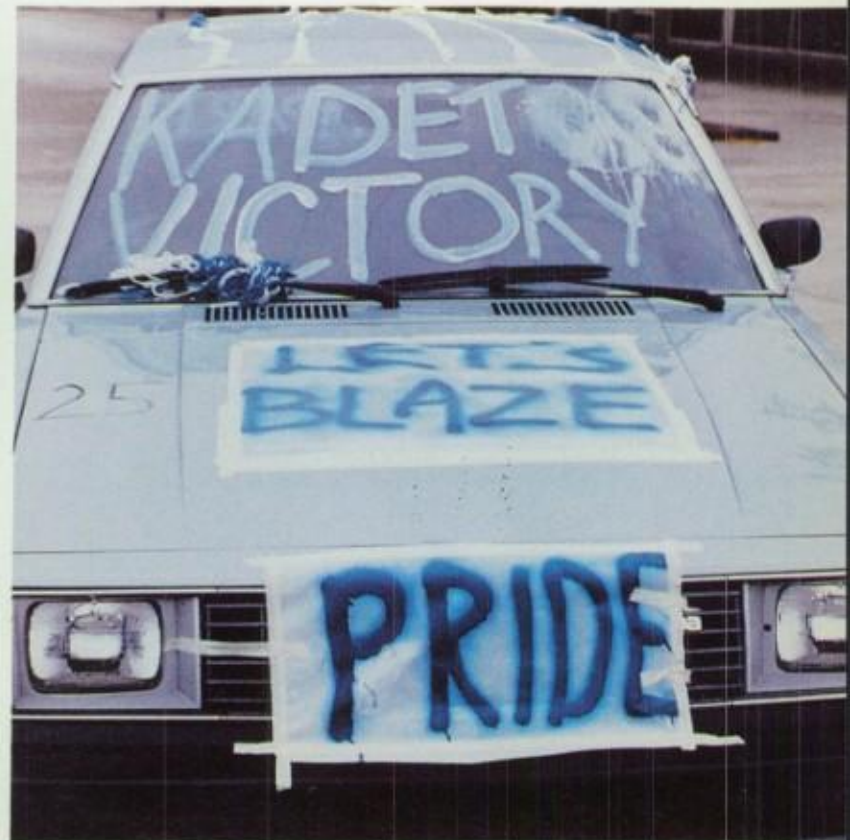

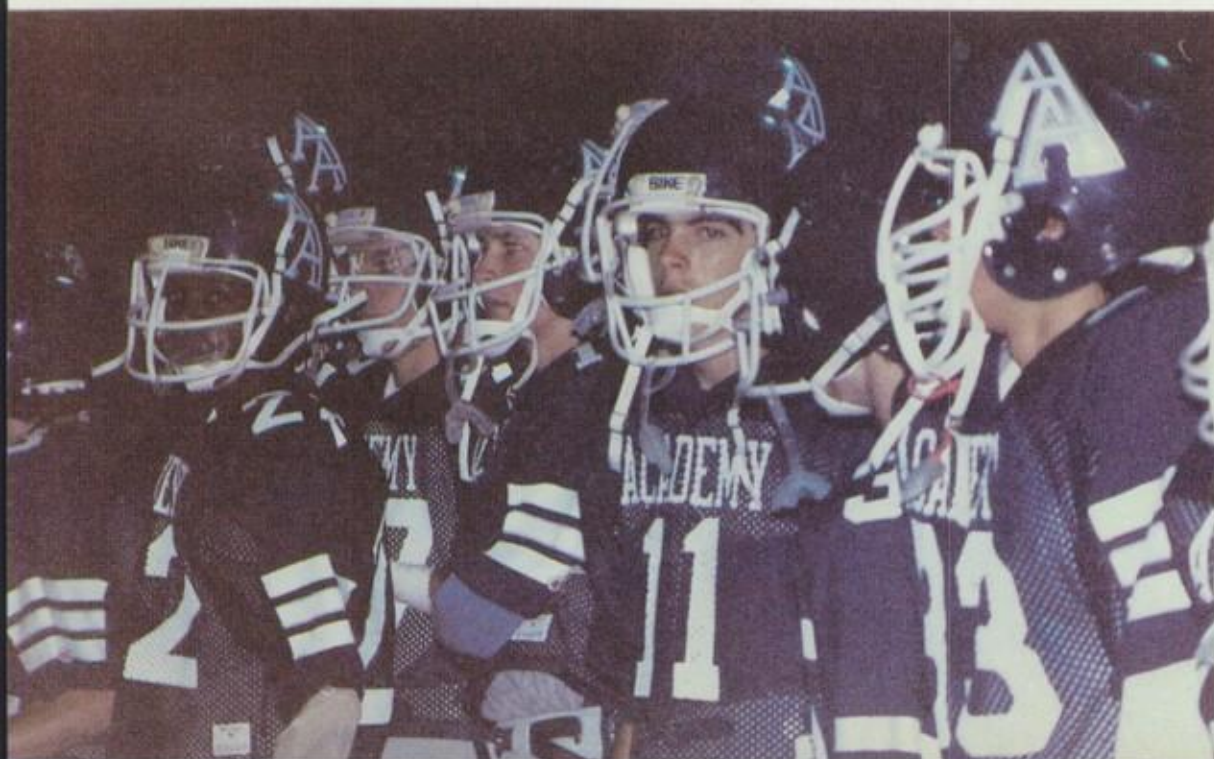

Danny Sigwing displays his feelings towards the Rams with his spirited sign.

It's A Matter Of Pride

Diana Kelley shows her swimming spirit on the day of a meet.

Kirk Lyster gets psyched to play while watching the Kadets.

Students showed their pride during Spirit Week by dressing up, supporting athletics, and promoting Homecoming. But year-round, Kadets were proud of their achievements individually and as a school. Going to AAHS and being a Kadet in 1983 was definitely "A Matter of Pride."

AAHS Follows Traditions

Chuck Rimer, Bill Burniece, and Dave Emerick know the Kadets will always be number one.

A Kadet tradition, t-peeing the school, has always been done by the senior powder-puffers.

The AAHS stadium shows the banners of the Kadets and Rams.

Looking back over the 26 years that AAHS has served the community, a tremendous amount of growth and change is obvious. One thing that has never changed, however, is the feeling of Kadet pride and the students' old-fashioned respect for traditions.

SENIORS

Being a senior means being at the top of the heap, having special memories, and making decisions about your future. It's exciting because seniors are on the verge of experiencing new and different situations, but it is also frightening because they will be entering college or joining the work force.

Brand Us Seniors

This year, the class of 1983 became the first graduating class to be split by the construction of Air Academy's sister school, Rampart High. Seniors had to adjust to the loss of friends and the new freshman class. The seniors have weathered the split between the schools and are splitting again into different directions. Many have chosen to work after high school in fields such as construction and business, while others have decided to go to college and earn a degree of some kind. The remaining seniors plan on marriage, travel or trade school such as beauty college or secretarial school. But whatever their separate directions, Air Academy's 1983 seniors will always share the memories of 1981 and 1982 with Rampart's first graduating class.

As a junior, one enjoys looking forward to being a senior and also laughing at the memorable but fun times as a sophomore and freshman. High school is no longer a new experience and life seems to be lax and laid back. On the other hand, the junior year is an important year grade-wise.

Upper right- Gary Achuleta stares intently at the scoreboard. Bottom right- Sandy Renfro tries on the helmet for size. Bottom left- Lisa Buras ponders the wild blue over yonder. Lower left- Tracey May shows her junior spirit on Punk Day. Upper left- Stacey Smith, Joanne Mattice, and Kelly Dunaway take time out to chat.

Being a junior is like being vice-president—it's a position with a lot of importance and few responsibilities. Juniors, as upperclassmen, carried a lot of clout with the sophomores and freshmen, but weren't under heavy pressure to decide about careers and colleges. While seniors were planning their futures and freshmen were trying to find their lockers, juniors were discovering themselves. The split between Air Academy and Rampart taught the juniors a lot about friendship, and how some friends faded away while others remained firm. The juniors also learned to form valuable relationships with the new sophomores, freshmen and faculty. The smaller classes this year enabled the juniors to get to know their classmates better. For these and many other reasons, the class of 1984 will always look back on their junior year as a year of change and personal growth.

Being a freshman is like being the new kid on the block. Freshmen must adjust to the new environment and new freedoms found in high school as well as make new friends and meet new teachers. Just like a new pair of jeans, freshmen must be broken in with care until they 'fade' into high school life.

Freshmen were a new addition to AAHS this year. Most of the freshmen were enthusiastic and excited to be in high school, and most liked being the first freshmen class, although some missed their friends at Rampart. Chris DePalo said, "It feels pretty good to be in high school. You feel kind of special. It's also better than junior high because you have more freedom." "You get more respect in high school than in junior high," said Jerry Weston. "The teachers treat you like adults." "I really don't like it this year because we got separated from our friends at Rampart. But I like being in the high school because the teachers respect you more," agreed Tracie Tulloch. "The teachers expect more of you and your grades count more because of college," observed Wendi Rice. "I'm glad about the split between Air Academy and Rampart because it's not so crowded and you have more room," said Steve Wagner. "I like being the first freshman class because we have a chance to be in high school now instead of waiting an extra year, and we're treated as individuals instead of a group."

Tennis Team Smashes Opponents

This year the tennis team, coached by Ms. Pam Sattler, ended its season with a 6-3 record and was tied for third place in the league. The doubles team of John Finnerty and Mark Kushinsky placed second in districts and qualified for state. They also received the honor of being elected the Most Valuable Players because of their enthusiasm, leadership and team support. The team also voted Mike McCormick and Ken Oleszek as the Most Improved Players because of their hard work and determination.

Coach Sattler, who also coached the Junior Varsity team, felt that the seven players on the team gained a lot of valuable experience this year from the five matches in which they played. She also commented that next year would definitely be a building year for the varsity team, since this year's team was mainly composed of seniors.

AA Gymnasts Sparkle In Competition

Coached by Toodie Royer and Cilia Hill, the gymnasts surprised many this year with their outstanding competition. With six gymnasts going to Rampart and six gymnasts staying at Air Academy, much scepticism existed about the abilities of the team. Yet the team and coaches took this as a challenge and devoted themselves to overcoming it.

Under the leadership of captains Beth Meyer and Stephanie Somerville, the team compensated for injuries and lack of depth by hard work and togetherness. As Beth Meyer stated, "Our team is so close. We're all one another's best friend, and because of that togetherness we became stronger gymnasts."

It was not unusual for them to work out from 2:00pm to 8:00pm. This attitude obviously paid off as the team placed 2nd in the city and 3rd in districts, missing state by one point. The Kadets, however, were represented at the state competition by Linda Gleason on beam and Beth Meyer on bars. "We really are state quality," said Marianne Miller. "We just blew it at districts, but we had a great season with a lot of pride and that's what counts."

Kadet Soccer Is Balanced

The splitting of the schools did not seem to affect the varsity soccer team. This was demonstrated by their 6-1 victory over the Rampart Rams. With a standing of fifth place, the soccer team finished an exciting season with a league record of 6-4.

The strengths of the team were not in one person. The whole team contributed equally with their abilities of efficient teamwork and dedication. Varsity soccer coach, Wayne Marshall, spoke highly of his young team by commenting, "They were one of the finest teams I have ever coached."

Golfers Start Off

This year's golf team consisted of students from every grade, none of which were returning lettermen. Mr. Davis was also new to the ways of coaching a golf team. This didn't hinder his efforts because from his experience as a golfer, he was able to help this new team progress rapidly. The season ended with the team only one shot away from state competition. Although none of his teammates qualified for state on an individual basis, junior Shaun Mackey did. There, he shot a commendable 170. As one of the two seniors and as the only girl on the golf team, Cari Carnahan said that she found the guys to be always very supportive of her, and that being the only girl didn't affect her acceptance as part of the team. "Overall," Coach Davis said, "the kids practiced very hard, and they definitely deserved their position at the end of the season. They were new and inexperienced, and should do better next year."

AA Runners Have A Learning Season

This year's cross-country team was fairly young, with the exception of senior Tom Hoyle, who was the only returning letterman and the team captain. Tom felt that the team was really young and that this season was a time for rebuilding and learning. Although none of the runners went to state, the team took second at the Lewis-Palmer Invitational and all eleven runners lettered. Coach Slavens mentioned that, "Since the kids ran from four to seven miles a day in all conditions, I felt that they earned that letter." Marnie Lincoln, a freshman and one of the three girls on the team, had never run competitively before. She commented, "Everyone was really supportive of one another and the most fun I had was getting to know everyone well." Coach Reggie Slavens summed up the 1982 season with his opinion of the team. "They were a great bunch of kids."

Inexperienced Wrestlers Pull Together

Mr. Klinsing, head coach, and Mr. Dobbs, assistant and strength coach, both experienced their first year of coaching at Air Academy High School.

Twenty-seven freshmen, juniors and one senior, Bill Swint, made up the wrestling team, with only one returning junior, Brad Johnson. Managers Susan Osborn, Sandy Brownell, and Anne Wilder assisted the coaches throughout the season.

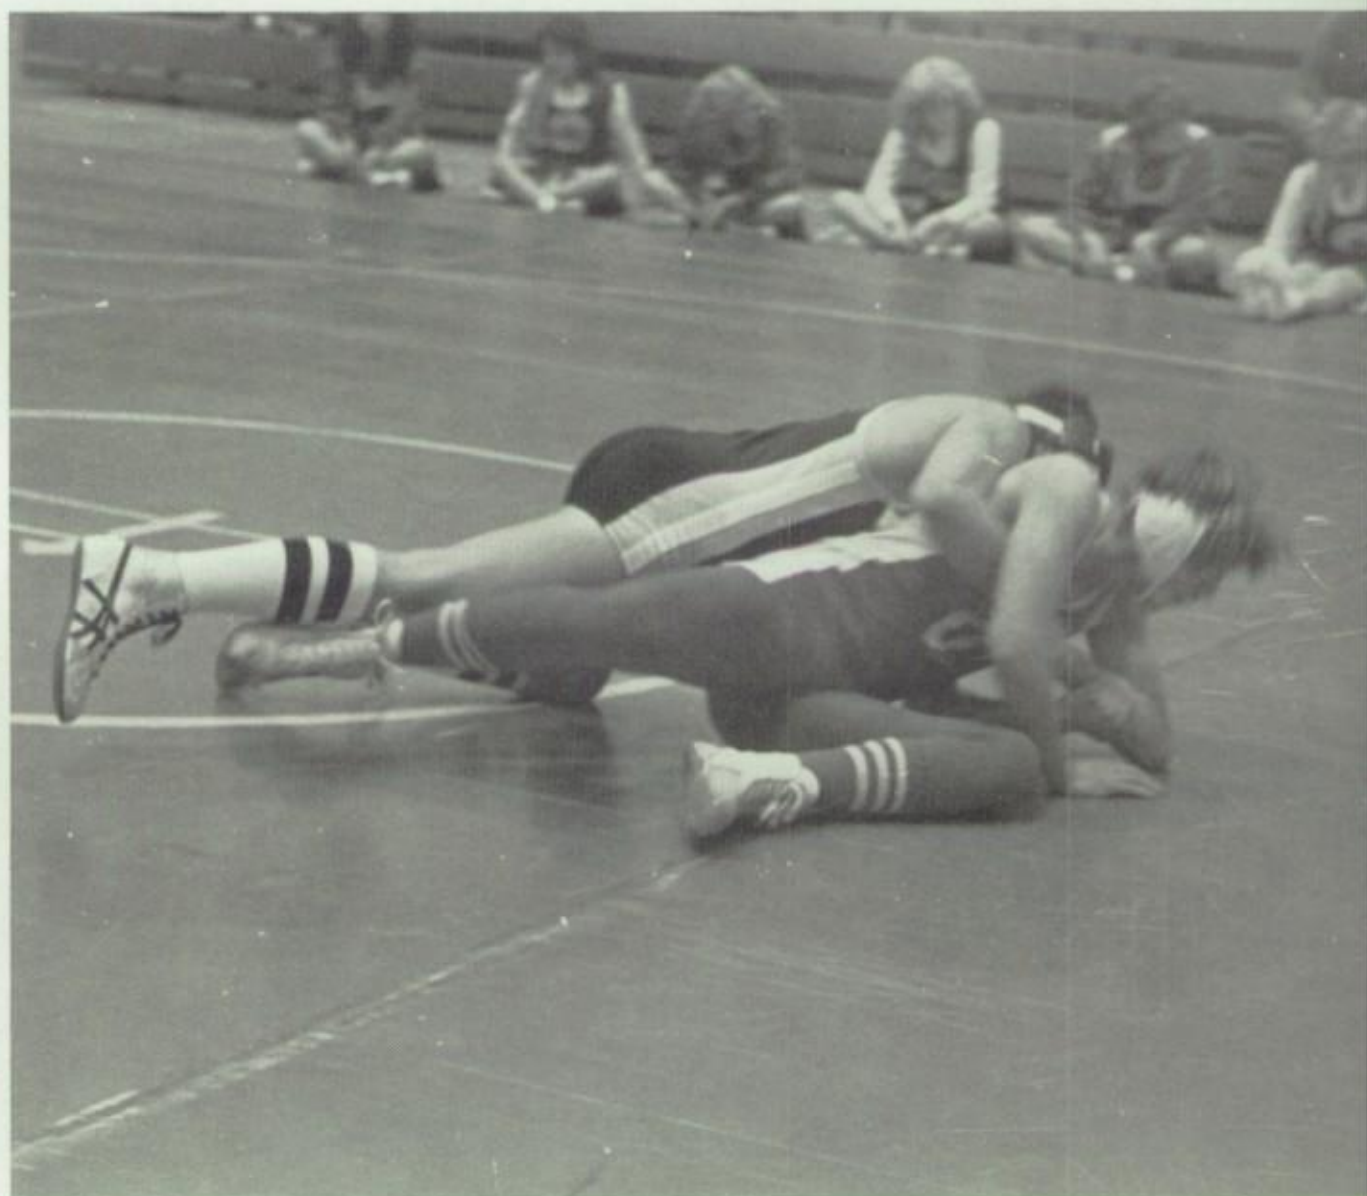

Although most of the team was inexperienced and lacked wrestling knowledge, their youth, cooperation, and eagerness to learn helped the team to realize their potential. For improvement and skill in this sport, the training mostly started from the first level and worked up with a strength program and basic techniques used in practice. Both coaches believed the easiest match was against Cheyenne Mountain because they also had a young team. The most difficult match was thought to be against Rampart, since many of their previous teammates now attend Rampart High School.

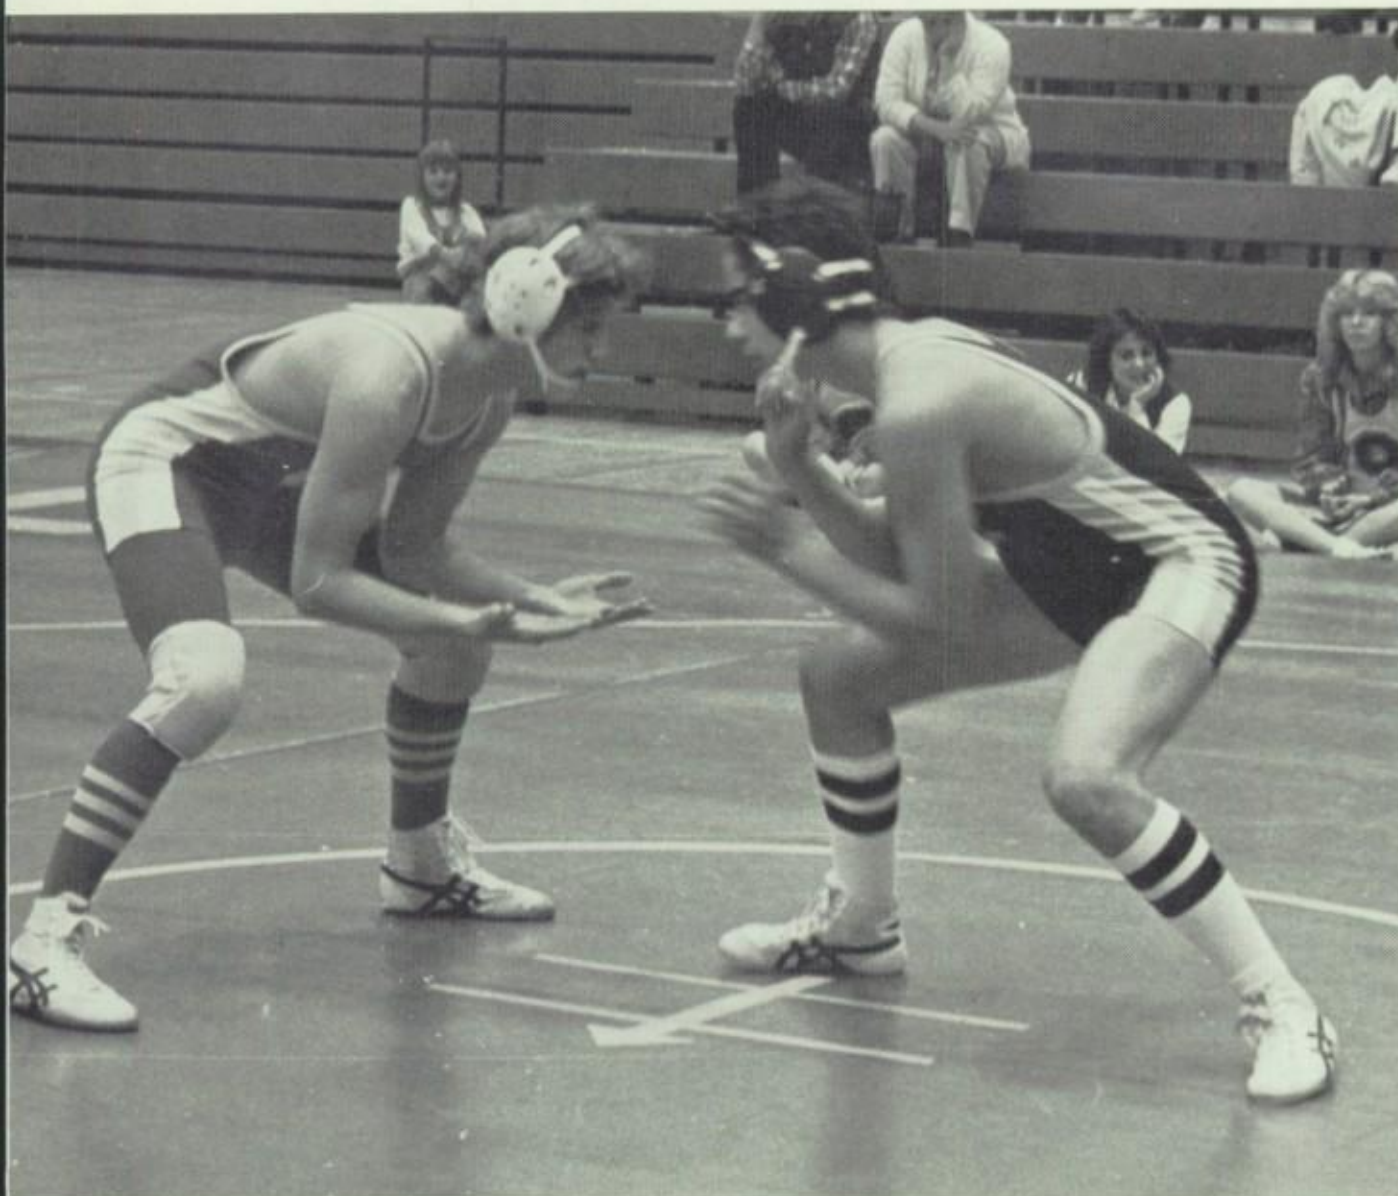

According to the coaches, team spirit existed between wrestlers and allowed them to work well together. The coaching of Mr. Klinsing and Mr. Dobbs was geared toward helping the Kadets develop their skills and realize their potential. Although more matches were lost than won, the experience that was gained this year will be valuable next year.

Spirited Season For Varsity Volleyball

The Air Academy girls volleyball team had a tough season this year. With only one senior and no returning letter players the team started with the basics and learned to function as a team. Only four of all twenty-four girls had played volleyball before. Although the competition was tough and learning to play was hard, the girls were full of enthusiasm. Coach Weinbender commented, "this year was a learning experience. By the time the season was over the girls were playing some tough matches and finally coming together. They had great attitudes and were determined until the end."

JV Shows Eagerness To Improve

Junior Varsity volleyball was a learning experience for most of the team this year, including the coach. Much like the Varsity team, the girls were mostly rookies. In spite of their inexperience, the whole team had a lot of spirit and were willing to put forth their best effort. Coach Selby contributed greatly in helping the girls to keep their spirit up. Although it was her first year coaching a high school volleyball team, she demonstrated a knack for coaching. The team learned many techniques in the 1982-83 season, and the girls finished with a winning attitude.

The Kadets Won The Right Games

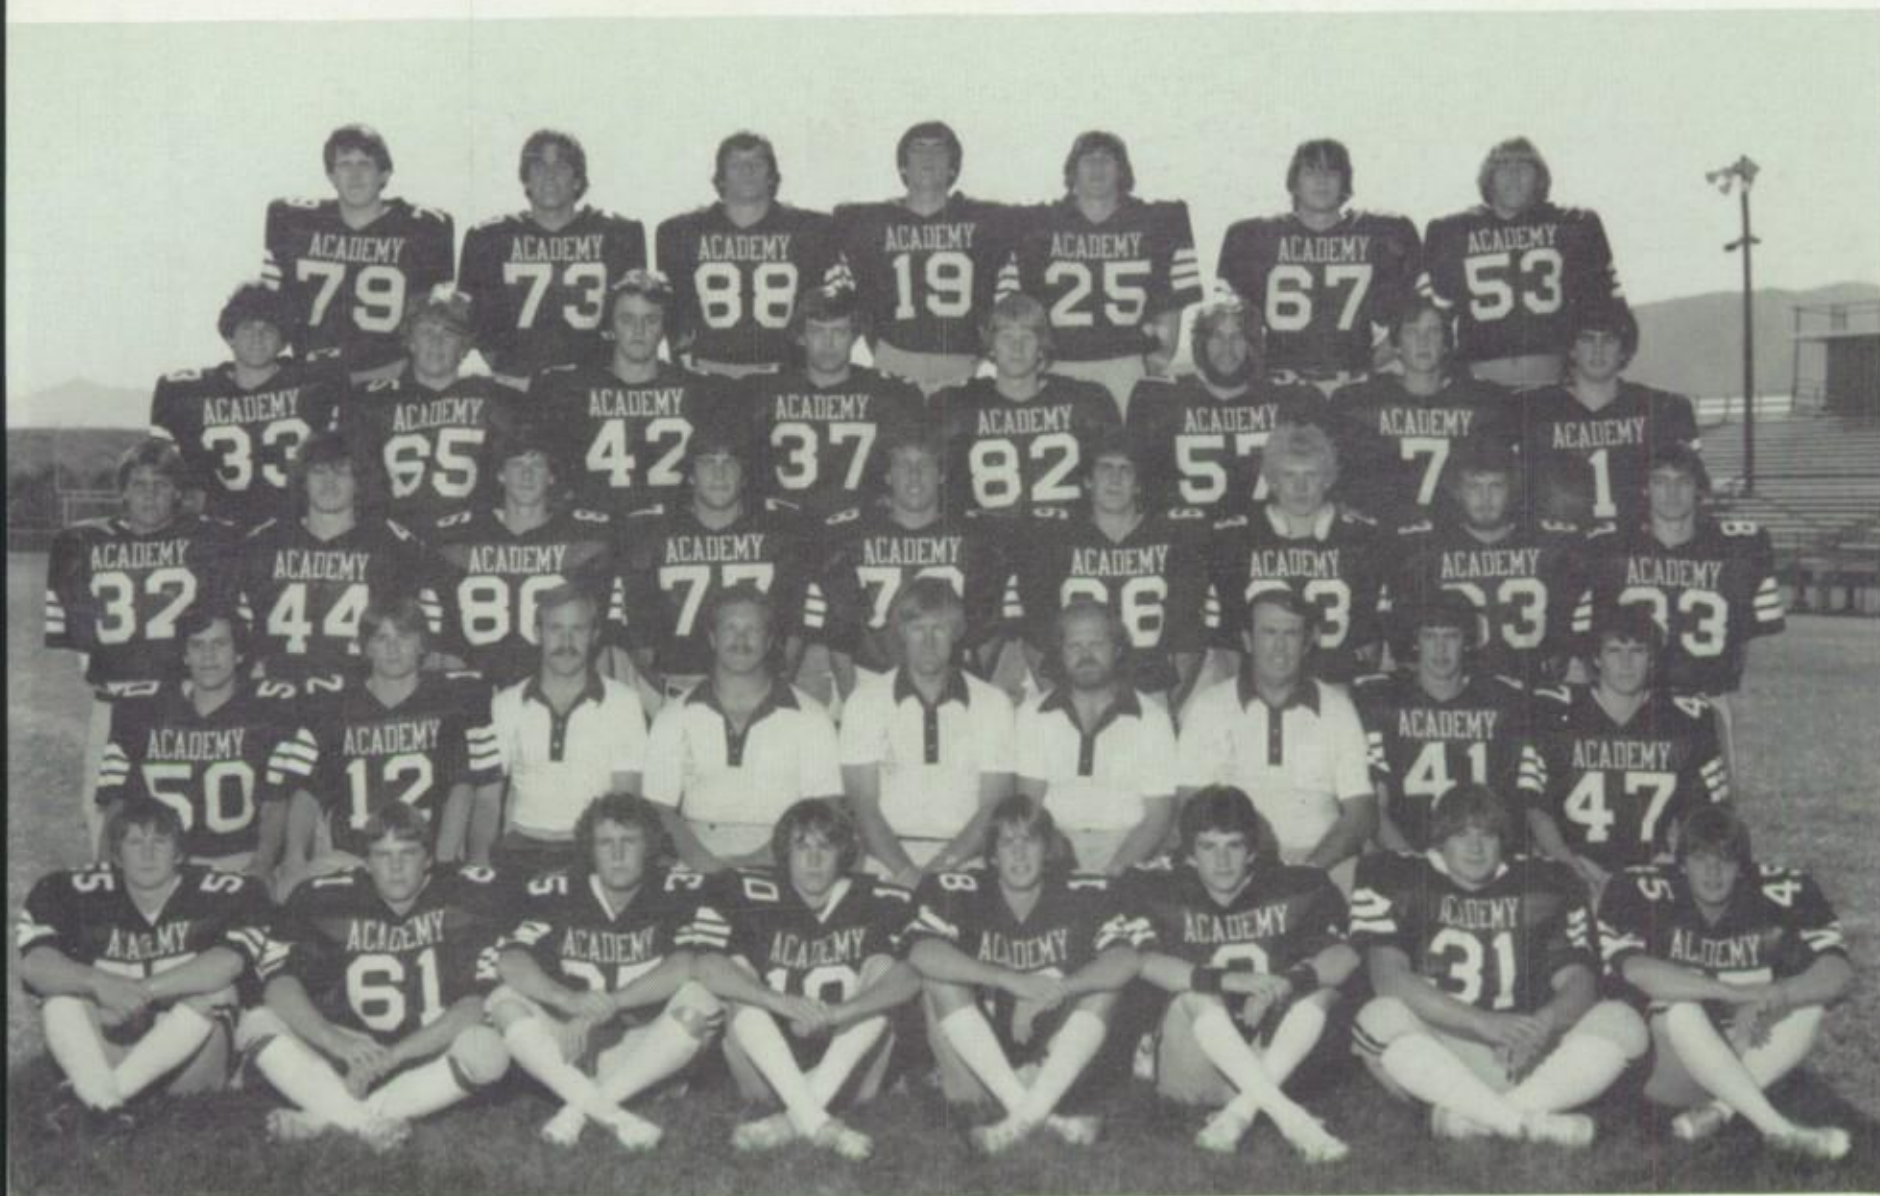

The Varsity football team finished a difficult 1982 season with a 3-7 record. Under the direction of a new coach, Mike Roof, the Kadets worked together with a positive attitude always in mind. "The kids were all hard-working, energetic, and wanted to be successful," assessed Coach Roof. "They really motivated themselves and I feel we had a successful season!" Although many players were lost to Rampart because of the split, the players worked even harder to overcome this handicap. Consequently, the team won more games than they were expected to. One of the highlights of the Varsity season was the victory over Rampart. The entire student body, faculty, and parents demonstrated their desire to win all week by decorating cars, putting up posters, and wearing spirit buttons. On the night of the game, the enthusiasm and spirit could be felt in the stadium. The Kadets rolled over the Rams with a final score of 25-7. Overall, the Varsity football team proved that size is not as significant as spirit, determination, and pride. Even though the season ended with a record of 3-7, the student body was pleased because the most meaningful games were won. Our homecoming victory and our victory over Rampart made the whole season worthwhile. We didn't win them all, but we won the right games.

The 1982 Junior varsity football team had a season of "growing and improving," stated Coach Hoit. The team finished the season with a record of 1-9, but the determination of the players kept them working hard to become part of the varsity squad. Kadet defense showed great strength with Chris Hale and Greg Walentas leading the defensive line. The Junior varsity team had its disadvantages, such as playing against 4A schools instead of our own 3A division. However, the season was a personal success for Coach Hoit and Coach Dobbs, who complimented the players on "improving their technique, attitudes and leadership." With the accomplishments of these players, Air Academy made progress toward a better varsity team next year.

The freshmen football team had "an enthusiastic season," stated Brink Spear, the team's coach. It was a year of beginnings for both the first-year coach and the freshmen, who were new at the high school this year. "My purpose was to interest as many freshmen as possible," said Coach Spear. "We have quite a few potentially excellent varsity players." All the hard work put into the season paid off with the victory over Doherty, which was the highlight of the season. "Even though there weren't many wins, we enjoyed the experience," summed up the coach.

Steve Kusulas breaks through the Wasson defense.

AA Girls Swimmers . . .

This year was different from past years for Coach Doepken of the girls Swim Team. Freshmen were participating for the first time and there were many girls out for the sport. The team was cut from about thirty girls down to a smaller group of twenty-two. This year, there were three seniors chosen as captains: Diana Kelley, Monica Ciletti, and Stacey Gilmore.

Kristi Allsman, Sandy Renfro, and Colleen Kelley all tried their skill at diving for the first time. Sophomore Colleen Kelley scored 139 points at the first meet against Doherty. This was one of the highlights of the season—a welcome surprise to the team. Another exciting surprise at the Doherty meet was the relay team's qualification for state in the first event.

Coach Doepken felt that the team's greatest strengths were spirit and cooperation, "I felt like we were working together as one big family!"

And Finish With A Winning Season!

The Girls Swim Team finished a winning season with their annual banquet. Letters and bars were awarded, and special awards were also given out. Christie Cooper earned the Most Valuable Award for showing her outstanding ability during the season. She broke all previous school records except for two. The Most Improved Award went to Freshman Krissie Burshnick. Julie Koz was rewarded with the Spirit Leader Award for her enthusiasm and dedication to the team.

Swimmers Stress Individual Success

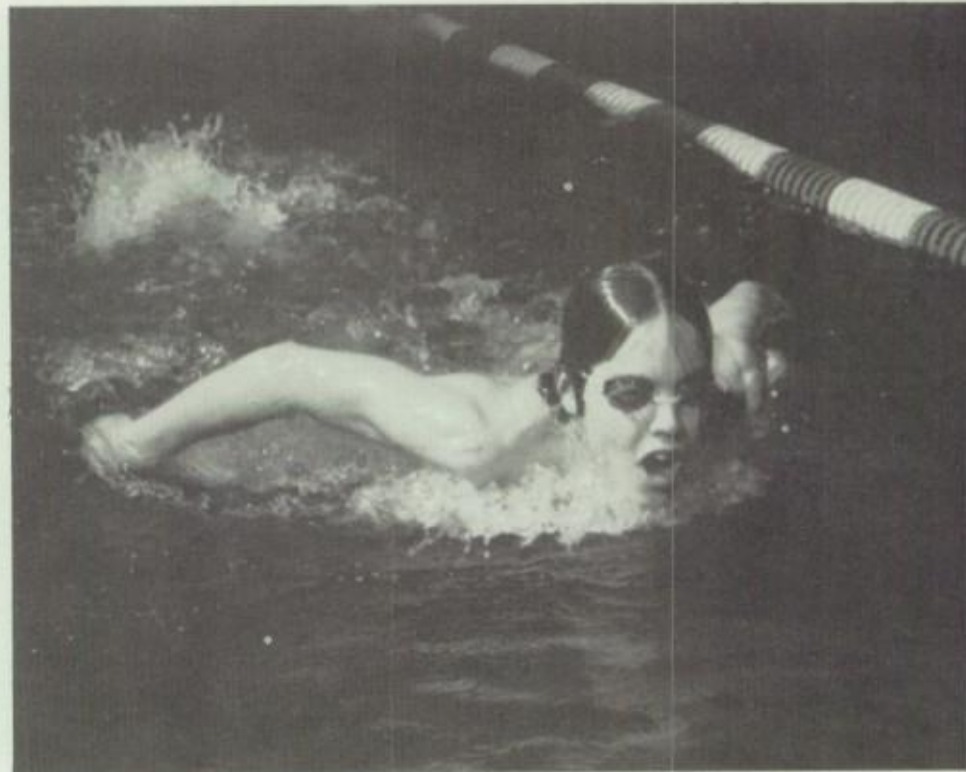

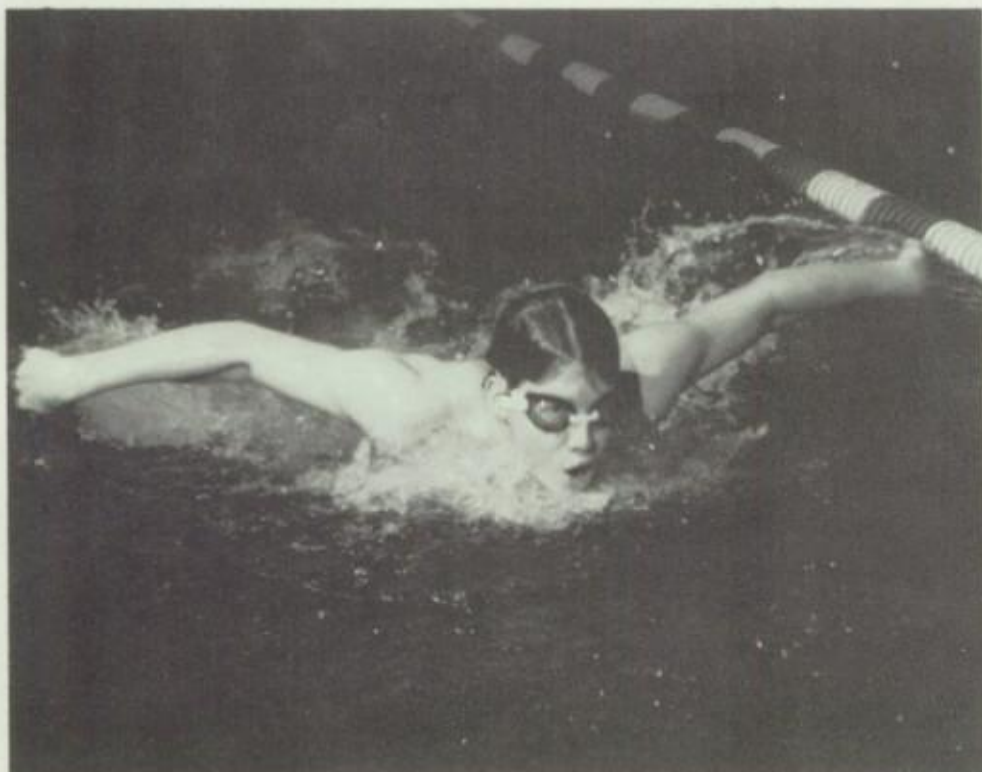

Air Academy Boy's Swim Team was led this year by new coaches Tim Kaiser and John Jackson. Kaiser and Jackson stressed the importance of individual accomplishment. Their judgement of a good swim meet was not based on whether or not the meet was won, but on achievement. As Kaiser said, "If we had 80% of the swimmers doing their best times or having good swims, then it was a good meet." Jackson, the diving coach, was a 1979 graduate of Air Academy and a member of the swim team during his high school years. Jackson said of the divers on the team "We had a young team, but a strong one which was willing to work and not limit themselves to just a few dives. Outstanding efforts this year were put in by Scott Emerick and Chris Sailer, but don't undermine the continual practice of the rest of the diving squad." Although the swim team only had three returning seniors, the seniors and captains Bart Beisner and Todd Rice quickly developed a good camaraderie and team spirit among the swimmers. Senior Mark McDonald said of the team spirit, "It is a special feeling knowing that when you hit the water in a race, even though you were the only one in the water, that every guy on the team was pulling for you," Many of the meets were extremely close, such as the Rampart meet. The outcome of the meet came down to the last race, the 400 meter freestyle relay. The relay team gave it their all as Air Academy swimmers always do, but in this race the team was beaten by less than a second.

The varsity boys basketball team finished the season with a winning attitude. Coach Mike Lynch was "optimistic" about the team's chances throughout the season and felt the team was a definite contender in the league. With a 2-2 pre-season record, the Kadets were ready for a great season ahead. Led by captains Pat Forde, Bill Butler, John Collins, and Dan Finnerty, the team developed "good cohesiveness", said Mr. Lynch. Individual goals were to average at least ten points each per game and to make the all-state team." "We had a better attitude than previous years," said Pat Forde. "Our greatest strengths were fast-breaking and ball-hawking on defense." The team overcame a lack of depth and height to form a close-knit, hard-working team with a winning attitude.

Beth Reinert, Julie Gable, and Mary Fallen were managers for basketball during the 1982-83 season.

The Junior Varsity basketball team strove to improve themselves because they want to be varsity players," said Coach Greg Biondi. The team's strengths were mostly in floor play, defense, and the center with Mark Parrish creating a strength in the middle of the court. The team beat Rampart "easily," said Coach Biondi, with a score of 53-44. Each player set individual goals, and the team goal was to develop each player's strengths to enable them to play varsity. The team was "competitive, because they were playing schools of equal size," stated Biondi. "The players really hustled on the courts this season."

Girls B-ball Is Tough League Competition

The Air Academy girls varsity basketball team started off the season playing some of the toughest teams in the league. The girls proved to be challenging to their opponents, and playing the games was a learning experience. By the end of the season, the girls had their basic skills down and were working together as a team. The enthusiasm was high and spirit was a big part in keeping the team together. With no returning lettermen and only three seniors, the team was composed almost entirely of new players. Coach Spear commented on the season saying, "The team worked hard and were willing to learn the game of basketball. They were a fun group of girls."

JV Spirit Runs High

The Junior Varsity girls basketball team of Air Academy High School had a steep hill to climb from the beginning of the season until the end. With only one girl who had ever played basketball before, the team had to start from scratch in learning the basic skills. Although it was a rough season, the girls were filled with team spirit and they were always striving to do better. Coach Selby felt the team made tremendous progress and she commented, "This team has a lot of potential for next year."

Co-captain Kirk Miller shows his winning style as he skillfully takes the puck down the ice.

This year's hockey team was composed of nine underclassmen and seven returning players, six of whom were seniors. In Coach Wayne Marshall's opinion, the seniors were part of the team's strength and gave a good overall performance for the season. Coach Marshall also stated that the addition of many underclassmen this year created a younger team with a lot of potential for next year.

Kadet Hockey . . . When Lightning Strikes,

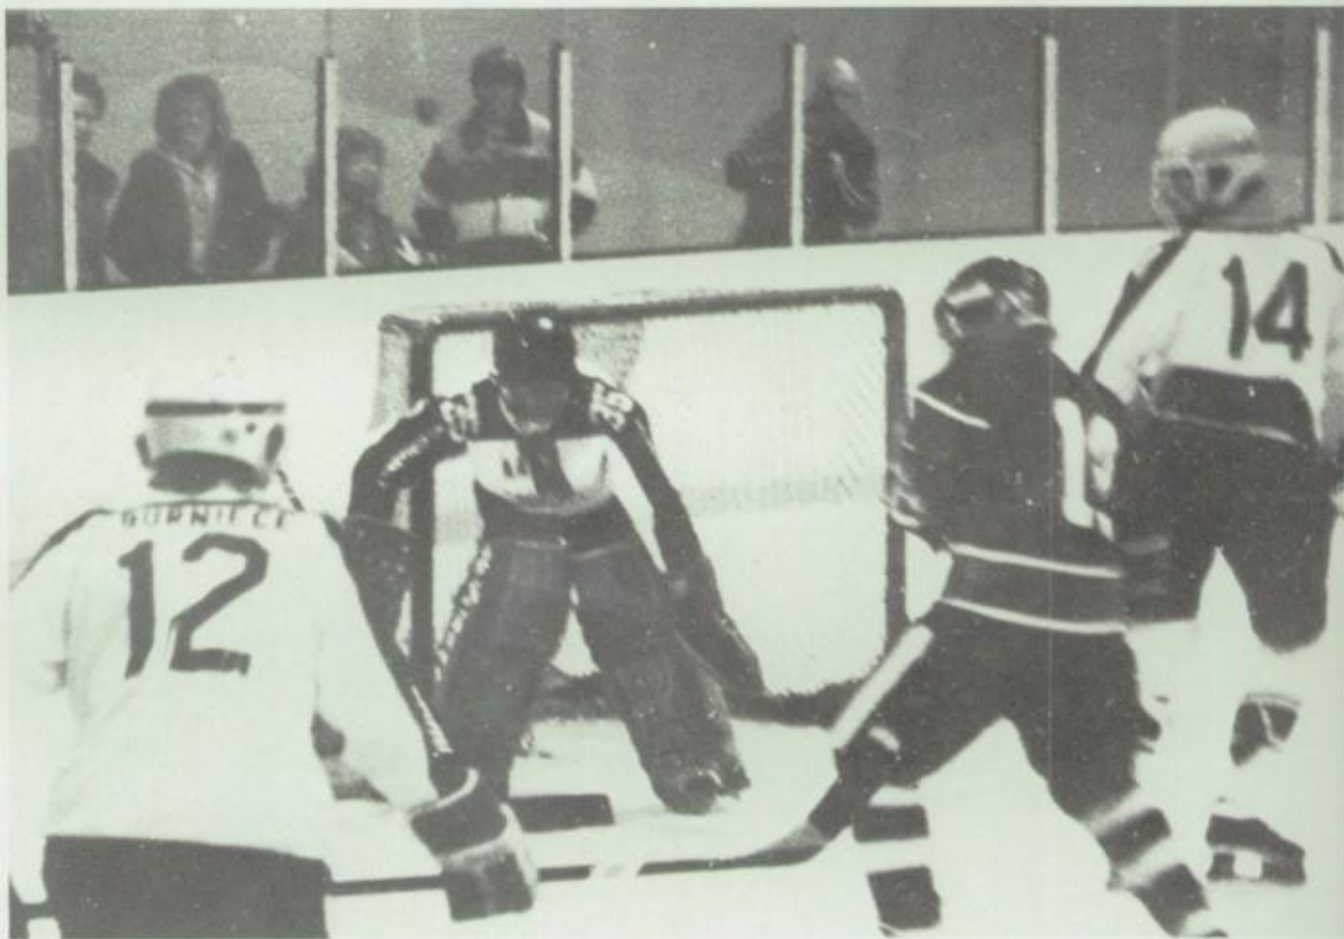

Ice time at the USAFA Fieldhouse was difficult to obtain so the hockey team often practiced until the early hours of the morning. Despite the erratic hours of practice, the players were still punctual to their 7:20 a.m. classes. Freshman Al Grieshaber stated, "Even though we were out there late sometimes, we learned a lot of new plays which made us a lot better." Senior Bill Burniece felt that practicing late at night made it a little harder to come to school in the morning but winning made up for it. Senior Eric Witte summed up the season by saying, "We all think Coach Marshall is a great guy even if we do have to practice late at night."

Led by captains Kirk Miller and Bill Burniece, the hockey team showed its amazing speed and ability as they chalked up numerous points against their opponents. Although losing their season open to Cheyenne Mountain, they quickly gained momentum and finished their season with a winning record.

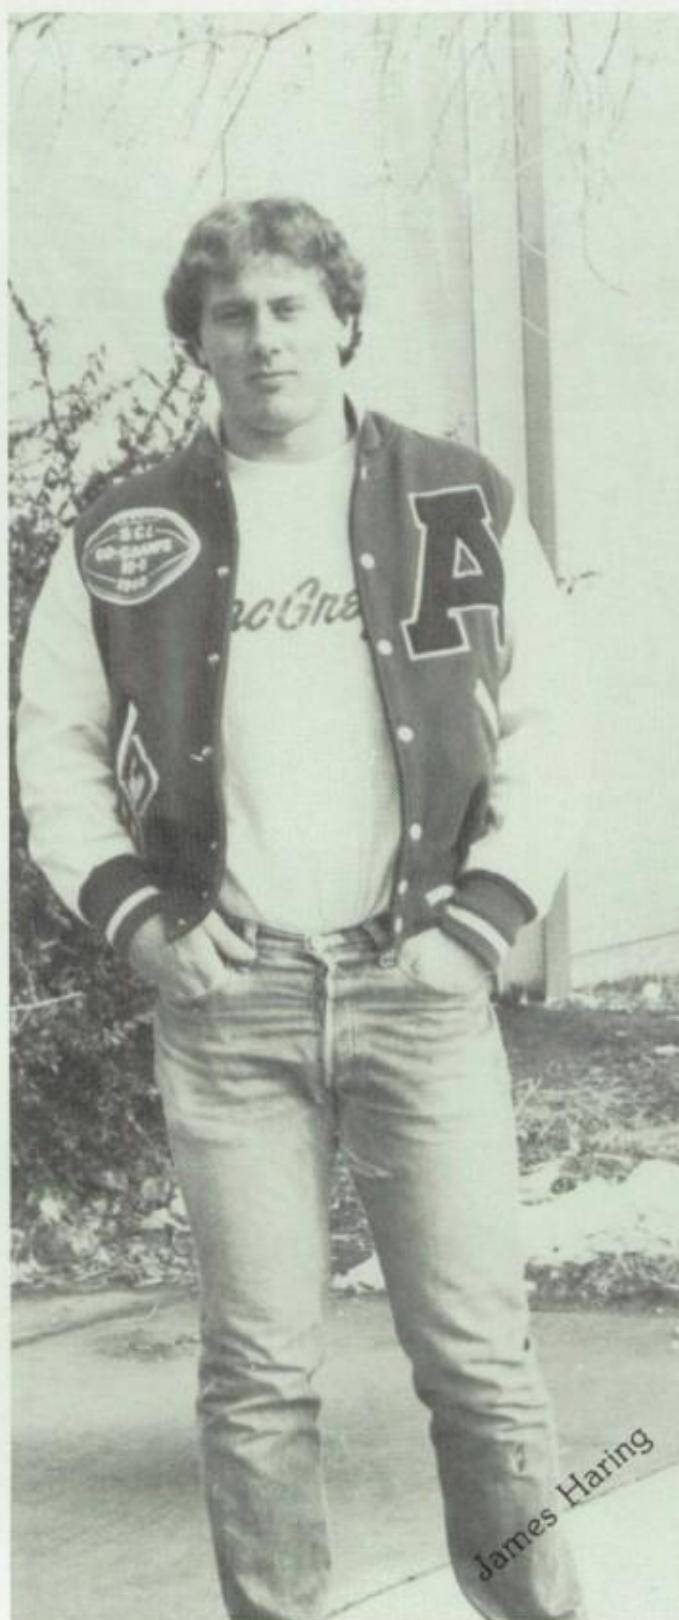

Talented, Dedicated Athletes Dominate

Every athlete has the potential to perform at his best, yet this year Air Academy had some athletes who made the Kadets especially proud. James Haring was one of these athletes. James led Air Academy's offensive football line as well as playing defensive linebacker. His performance earned him a place on the All Area team in both positions. James was also recognized as an All State linebacker.

Heidi Hedrick played for the girls varsity basketball team and has been the star quarterback of the powderpuff football games both her junior and senior years. Softball, however is Heidi's specialty. She has played softball for eleven years and is now playing for the Colorado Springs Competitive Fast Pitch Traveling City Softball Team. Golden Glove was one of the many awards which she has recieved for her athletic ability.

Air Academy varsity tennis team members Mark Kushinsky and John Finnerty were chosen for the Second All Area team for number two doubles. They also placed second in districts, which qualified them for state.

Tom Hoyle contributed to the cross country team with times giving him the top score in each of the meets. At the Pueblo Invitational he came in with the time of 16 minutes and 59 seconds in the 5000 meter, achieving a personal record.

Air Academy Fall And Winter Sports

Much of the success of Air Academy's hockey team was due to the first line of Bill Burniece, Kirk Miller, and Bobby Schaller. The trio held the school and state records for the most points in a game-19. The individual talents of each of the three made a powerhouse for Air Academy's hockey team.

Senior Bill Butler was noted for his skill in basketball. This year Bill was one of the top scorers in the state. Bill was also a wide receiver for the football team. In football, he made the All Area team and received an honorable mention for the All State team.

Christie Cooper set five school records in swimming and qualified for state in 8 events. Due to her successful school season, she made the All Area team. Her dedication to swimming extends beyond school to the Colorado Springs Aquatics Swim Team and her qualification for the Longhorn Invitational in Austin, Texas. She was also listed in America's Outstanding Names and Faces for her swimming talents.

Tom Treece was not able to swim for the Kadet high school team, because swimming for the Colorado Springs Aquatics made him ineligible. Tom has gone to the Junior National Olympics three times. In the most recent of those competitions, he placed 9th in the preliminaries and 12th in the finals. Tom has also qualified for the All American Invitational and Mid Western Senior Championships.

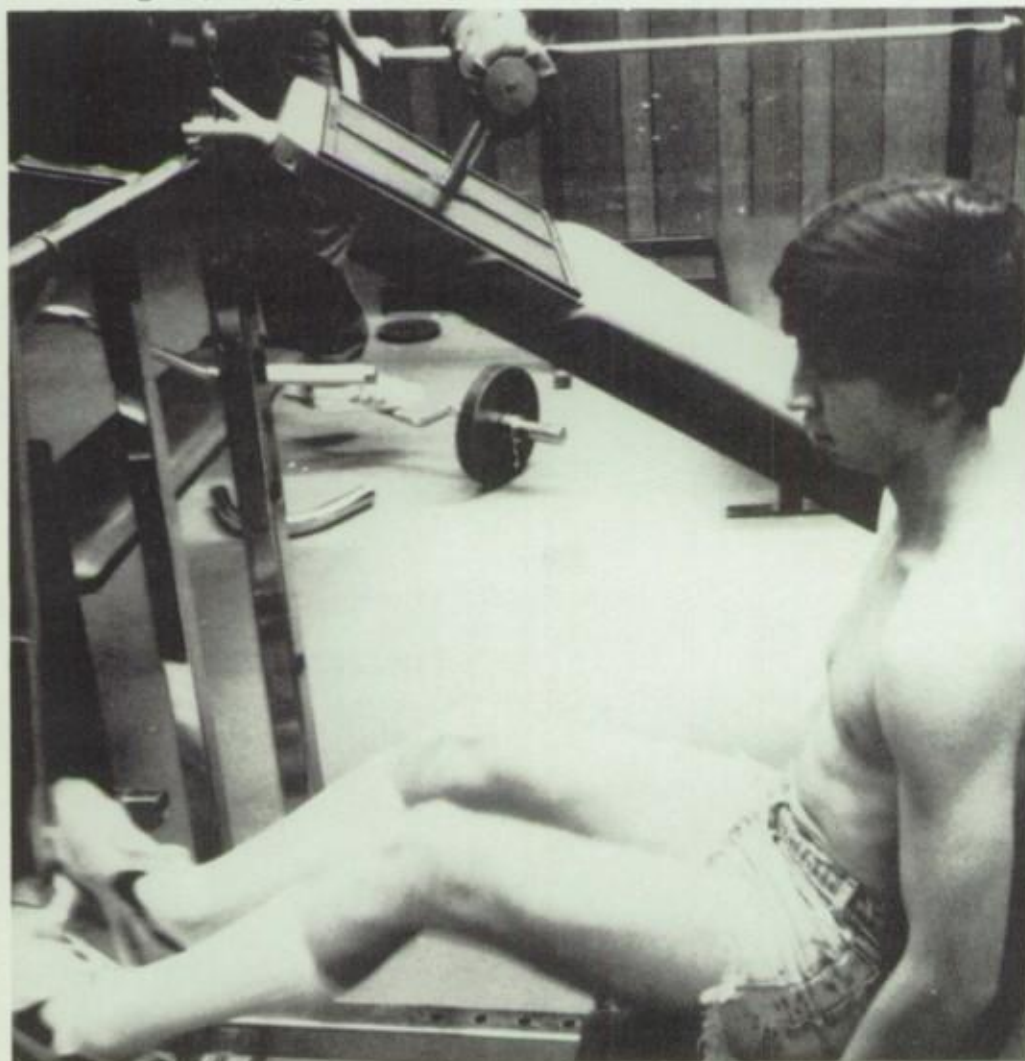

Pumping Iron Builds Bodies And Character

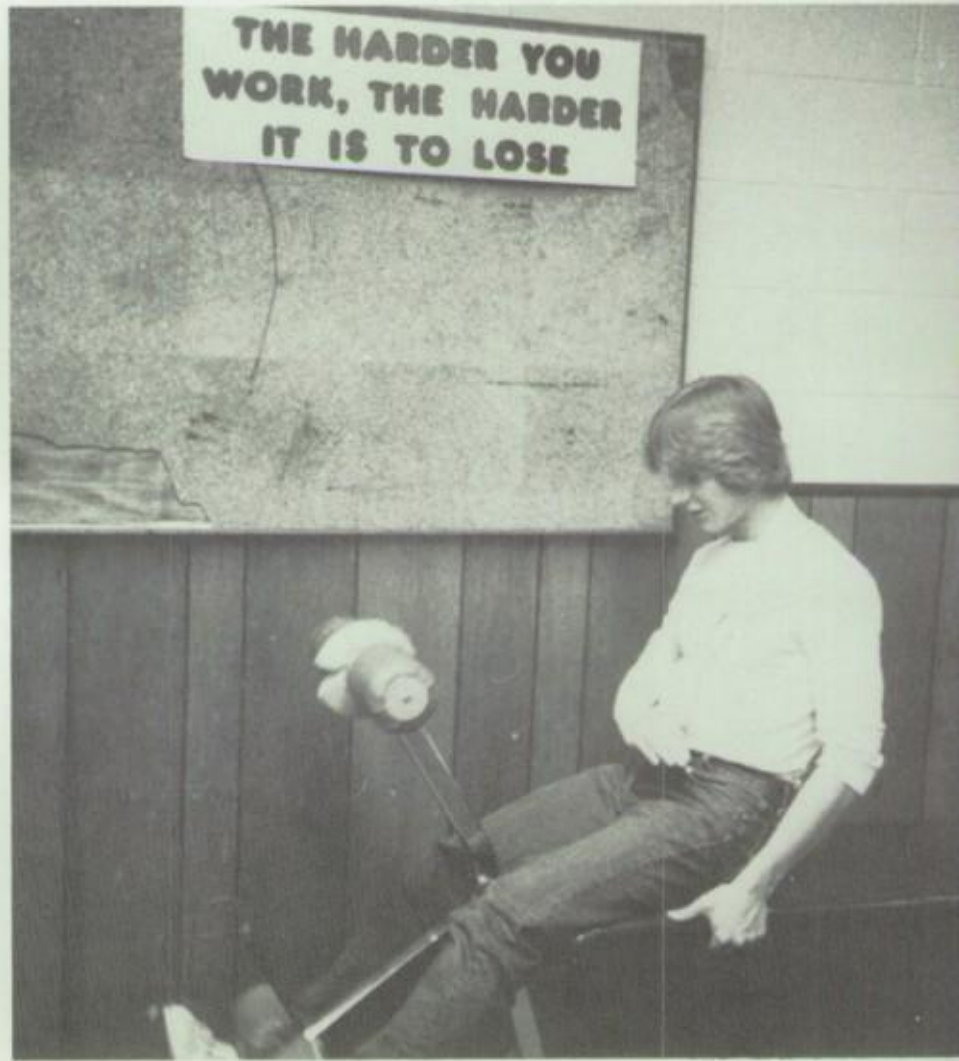

The Sweat Shop, better known as the weightroom, is a place where students and teachers can go to condition for a particular sport or just to tone their muscles. Coach Dobbs emphasized the benefits of weight lifting to athletes because it reduces the chances for potential injury and increases ability and muscular strength. He also believed that one of the most important benefits of weight lifting is that it instills a positive self-image in the competitors. Having only one Universal weight machine and various free weight sets, the weightroom was very limited this year in terms of equipment. However, Coach Dobbs commented, "I hope to improve the weightroom facilities and to see more people, both boys and girls, using the weightroom."

This year, helping to keep school spirit alive was the main goal of the Air Academy cheerleaders. Mrs. Kathy Anderson, the Junior Varsity sponsor, said "The cheerleaders tried to promote school spirit among the students and athletes while positively representing the school." Mrs. Pat Ross, the Varsity sponsor, felt that the cheerleaders had several responsibilities "which most students had no concept of." Besides attending every AAHS sporting event possible, the cheerleaders made posters, sold spirit buttons, sponsored several fund raisers, cheered at assemblies and were responsible for creating, learning and practicing cheers. The Varsity team was led by captains JoEllen Pertl and Kris Reinert. Mrs. Ross stated that they did excellent work and were a large part of the reason why the squad did such an outstanding job. She also commented, "I'm very proud of the girls and of all the work that they put into this year."

The club sponsored a Pac-Man challenge to raise money for new computer software, and accomplished their main goal this year-to improve the computer room. "It's an interesting club," said Christie Cooper.

Drama Members Gain Acting Experience

Drama Club is sponsored yearly by Mr. Rock Campbell. Each semester, the club puts on a play. First semester, the club put on a play that member Rocco Nestola wrote himself, and for the Christmas show, the club produced "the Red Carpet Christmas." During their club meetings, the members concentrate on prop-making and rehearsal. The purpose of the club is to expose students to acting as a possible career or just as a hobby.

Council Initiates The Right Projects

The Executive Council, under the direction of Paul Angelico, worked to "set the tone of the whole year," said Lisa Elges, executive secretary. "We wanted to set an example for the freshmen and sophomores." The council developed their skills in leadership, planning, and organization and spread a spirit of Kadet pride throughout the school.

The Senior Council initiated many projects this year, including welcoming new students to AAHS, raising money for a computer for Mike McFadden, and selling magazines. Trying to be "much more productive this year," they also sponsored Powderpuff and donated money to the Veterans' Fund.

Underclass Councils Set Traditions

The junior, sophomore and freshmen student councils broadened Air Academy's horizons by setting new traditions. The juniors ran the concession stand at football games and worked constantly to make the 1983 prom a smashing success. The sophomore council put on the Valentine's Dance and sold lollipops to raise money for their projects. The freshmen council, a brand new addition to the Student Council this year, tried to set new freshmen traditions such as selling bunches of balloons and delivering them to students. "The juniors have always done prom, and the sophomores have always done the Valentine's Dance. The freshmen tried to make their own tradition this year," said Trish Moore, sophomore council member. "Basically, the student councils serve as a liason between students and administration."

FBLA Provides Opportunities

Future Business Leaders of America, the school's business oriented club, "provides opportunity for students to see what business is all about by participating in competitive events," said Mr. Max Stucky, the group sponsor. FBLA competes in district competitions in different areas dealing with business. "It's a good experience," said club member Kristen Van Inwegen, "because if we want to go into the business field in the future, we'll know more about it."

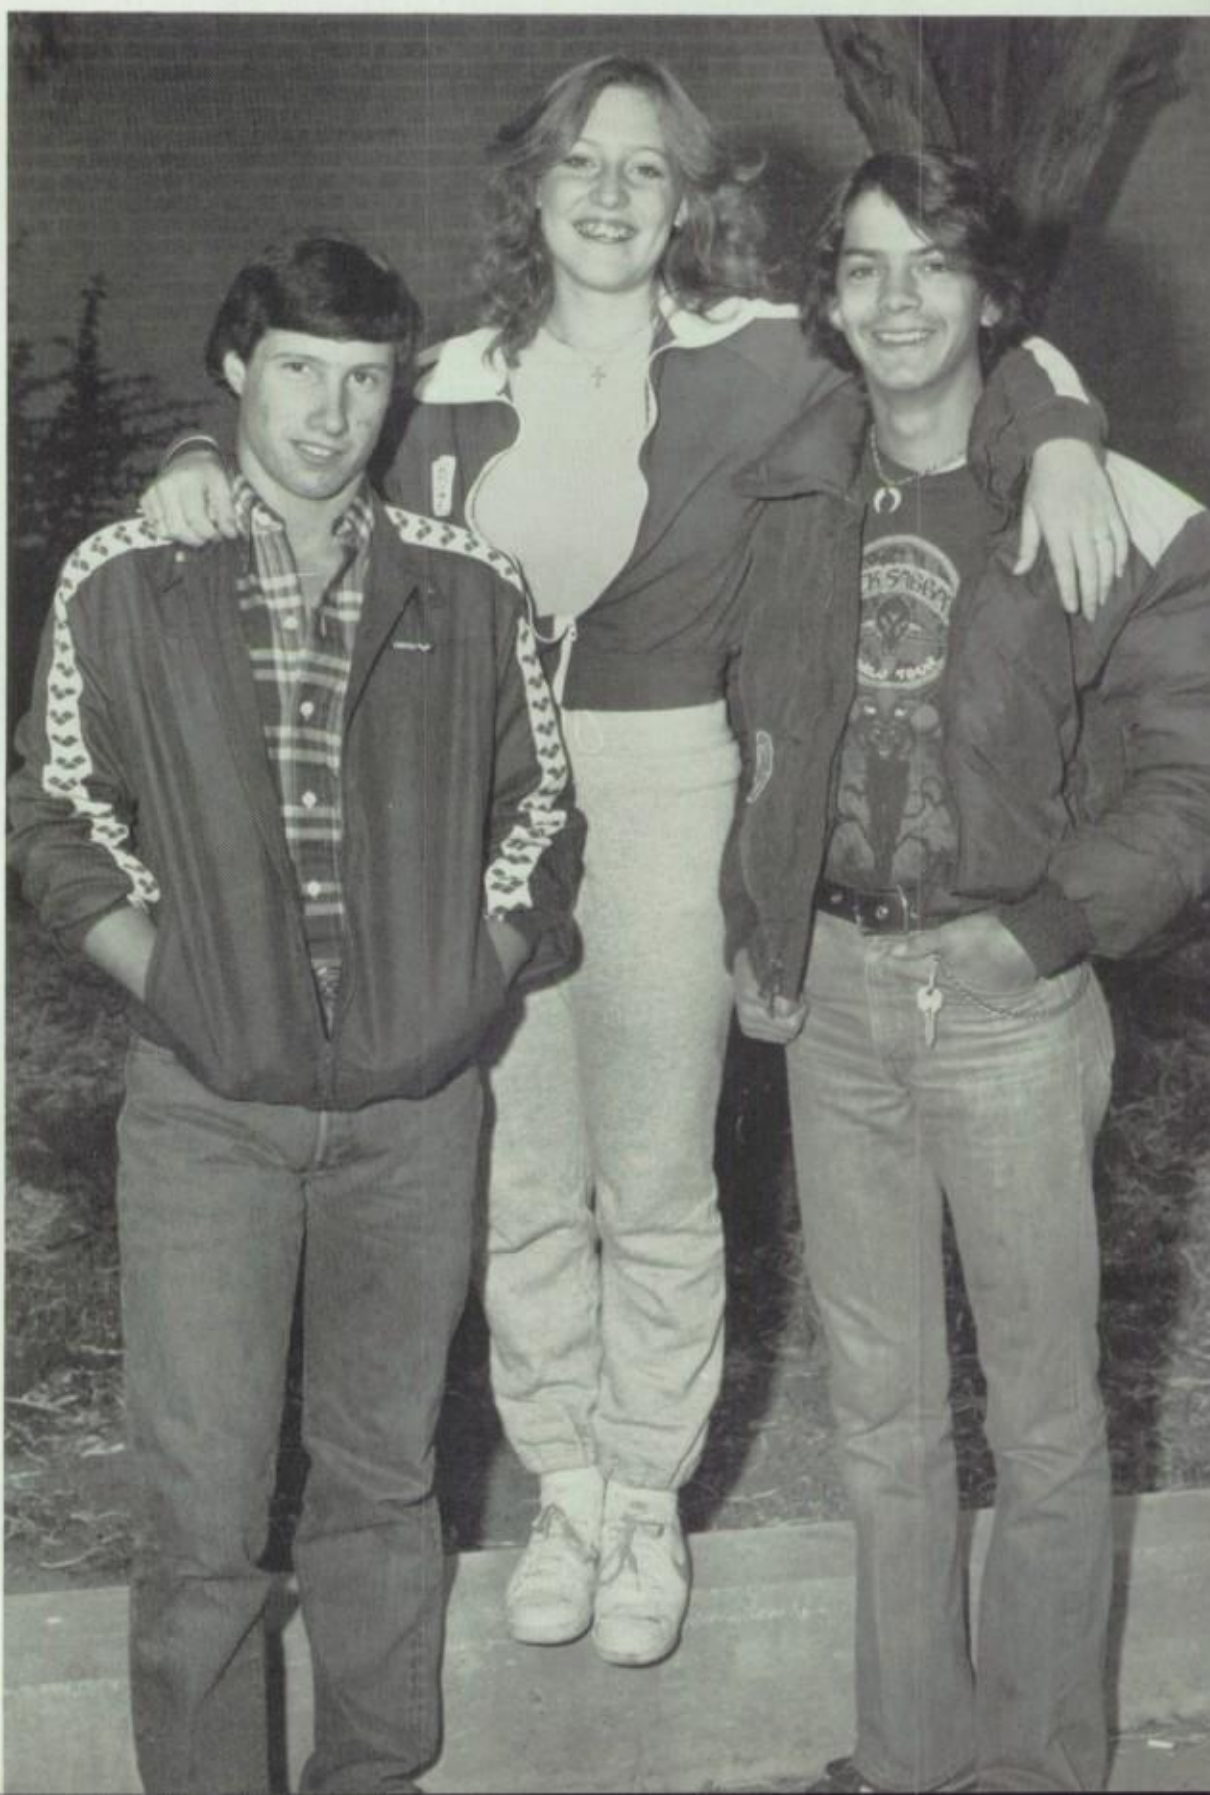

Lisa Klein and Mary Haberkorn look over Dawn Geil's shoulder as she writes out business contracts.

I.C.E. Trains Students In Chosen Careers

Industrial Cooperative Education (I.C.E.) is an organization headed by Mrs. Genie Losiewicz. The purpose of I.C.E. is to train students in their chosen career fields. Members of the club work part time and spend a half day at school. Mrs. Losiewicz finds jobs for I.C.E. members and speaks with the supervisors personally. In class, the students are taught the basic principles of surviving in the job market. I.C.E. also visits various plants to see workers on the job. There are certain requirements to qualify for and to remain in I.C.E. The members must pass all classes and maintain a good job record. I.C.E. is a wonderful opportunity for students who are interested in careers after high school.

Some members of I.C.E. are seniors Kelly McClain, Kim Kirby, and Mike Haddon.

Distributive Education Club of America (DECA) give students a chance to become involved and experienced in business and in business practices. Not only do the members of DECA learn how to run a small business operation by studying from their books and listening to various guest speakers, but they also learn by operating the Kadet General Store between classes and during Academy periods. The club also allows students hands-on experience for publicity, organizing shifts, and ordering food. Committees are organized for the purpose of fund-raising sales experience. Supervised by Mrs. Kathy Whaley, DECA also competes against DECA chapters from other schools. Of the club, treasurer Belisa Morgan commented "I think DECA is a really good club. I had wanted to get involved with business and DECA gave me the opportunity. It helped me to learn a lot."

Air Academy's chapter of the National Forensics League, sponsored by Rock Campbell, is a club that teaches students about speech and debate. The club goes to tournaments hosted by different schools. Members give oratories, speak extemporaneously, and present oral readings of poetry and drama. They also do duet acting and two forms of debate, cross-examination and Lincoln-Douglas. NFL is also a club which helps members develop their speaking and writing abilities.

NHS Attempts Brand New Projects

National Honor Society is a club which admits members on the basis of their scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Members are initiated in their junior year and must maintain a 3.5 grade average and good character to remain in the club. This year the members strove to inform the student body about NHS and its activities, and the club sponsored many new projects in a successful attempt to make National Honor Society more than a service club. Besides the traditional General Grant raffle and other fund raisers, NHS members came up with new ideas for social gatherings and programs.

International Club Combines

This year the individual language clubs (French, Spanish, German, and Latin) combined to form the brand new International Club. The club is part of the nationwide AFS (American Field Service) program. In this program, students from other countries can spend a school year with an American host family and attend an American school. American students, in return, are able to spend a school year in a foreign country.

The club sponsors (Mrs. Saunders, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Davis, Miss Sattler, and Ms. Marsh) along with the club president, Sharon Hullinger, planned many activities. The club took a hiking trip to Queen's Canyon, went to the Yum Yum Tree in Denver, and had an international Christmas party.

High Trails Experience Proves To Be . . .

If you've got sanity, a sense of humor, and a lot of patience, then you've got what it takes to be a High Trails counselor. A.A.H.S. students met with the sponsor, Mr. Max Stucky, in the fall to see if they were qualified to be a counselor. Mr. Stucky wanted, "A person who is trustworthy, responsible, and works well with sixth graders." After all of the homework was collected for the week, the counselors were off for a wild week with a group of sixth graders.

The High Trails experience included living in cabins with sixth graders for a week, leading "discovery groups", and helping the High Trails staff. The high school counselors led their "discovery groups" through activities ranging from being aliens from the planet Alpha Bora Rorus to leading a powwow of indians. Other activities offered were climbing a three story tree-house, making apple cider, and a "hoe down" dance at the end of the week.

According to Mr. Stucky, "The High Trails staff felt the counselors did really well during the three-week time period.

Sixth graders were able to see this eagle's beauty through their own eyes instead of through a picture.

Mountaineering Club Climbs To The Top

The Mountaineering Club is made up of students who want to learn outdoor survival while also enjoying many outdoor activities. The sponsor, Mr. Bruce Hamilton, said, "We have a lot of fun. More students should participate, especially girls. This is a co-ed activity." Some of the activities the club participates in are rock climbing in Eleven Mile Canyon, and for beginners, Mr. Hamilton teaches rock climbing at Garden of the Gods. Garden of the Gods and Stanley Canyon were two of the favored hiking places but a trek was also made up Pikes Peak. The club also cross-country skis when there is enough snow. Overnight trips are done once or twice a year when everyone brings their tent, sleeping bag, and food to survive in the wilderness for the night. Mountaineering Club is a worthwhile learning experience which teaches respect for the outdoors.

The Performing Arts Appreciation Society (PAAS), sponsored by Mrs. Longo, is a club interested in viewing the performing arts, such as plays, musicals and melodramas. President Anne Dargenio planned various activities for the club with the help of Vice-president Kyle Yergensen. Some of these activities included trips to Denver to see Broadway shows. Anne commented, "I enjoyed the club very much. Any students who are musically inclined or enjoy such productions will benefit from the experience of joining PAAS."

During an academy period, Dawn Geil, Matt Blakey, Kraig Fairhurst, Rhena Gladney, Julie Wedemeyer, and President Anne Dargenio discuss the Club's activities for the next weekend.

AA Show Choir Performs With Pride

Performing pop and Broadway numbers is the pastime of the AAHS Show Choir. "Show Choir is a challenge," said member Ted Miller. "It's hard work and a lot of choreography, but it's worth all of the effort we put into our work." "All of the choirs, as well as Show Choir, have really grown," said Mrs. Longo, "By having more people involved, we have been able to do an outstanding job."

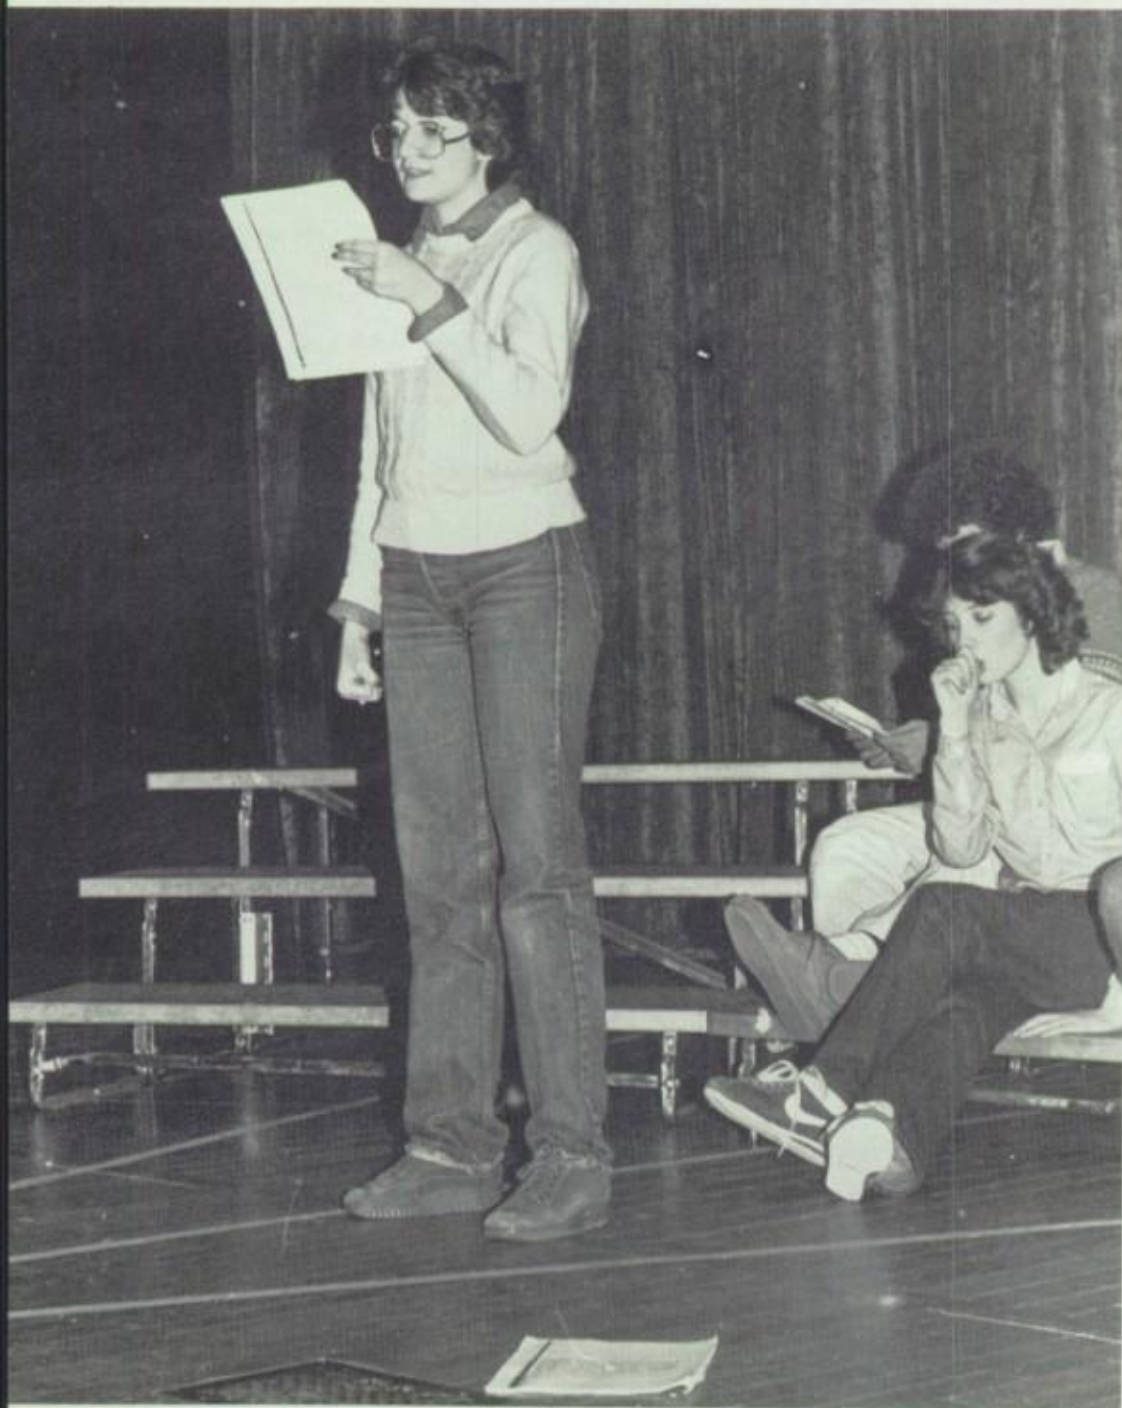

Diana Kelley and David Madigan double up on their performance.

Music Theatre Expend Energy

Music Theatre is a special type of drama class which combines the study of music with the study of acting to produce plays and musicals. Students learn how to project their voices and other important skills that are needed to perform on stage. Mrs. Longo also instructs the students on techniques needed for auditioning. Their practice on improvisations, musicals, and plays culminated in the production of Charlie Brown.

Anne Dargenio concentrates on her script during a practice session on stage.

Festival Choir Is A Learning Experience

This year Festival Choir was composed of nine girls who sang all types of music, including popular music. Festival choir is considered a learning choir to prepare the girls the other auditioning choirs such as Show Choir and Chamber Singers. The class was open to all grades, but teacher approval was required for admission.

The class performed in four school concerts this year as well as many outside of school. They performed at the Citadel and at Foothills Elementary. Mrs. Longo, Choir director, described Festival Choir as "small but mighty."

Madrigals Sing With A Unique Style

Rear, Dana Smith, Bruce Hall, Stacey Chambers, and front, Kyle Yergensen, Diane Summers, and Jim Abbott sing with the rest of Chamber Singers at the annual Christmas concert.

Chamber Singers, or Madrigals, was composed of fifteen members first semester and, at the beginning of second semester, added a sixteenth member, Rocco Nestola. The choir was carefully chosen to be a well balanced selection of voices. There were four each of sopranos, tenors, basses, and altos.

Chamber Singers performed both madrigal music from the Dark Ages and religious or spiritual music. Most of their music was sung a cappella (without instrumental accompaniment). Their long-standing tradition of singing while seated around a table actually comes from cultures of the past. During the Dark Ages, for instance, people used to sing to each other for entertainment following dinner.

This choir had many concert invitations this year. They were invited to sing for Christmas parties at Foothills Elementary, the Air Force Academy, and the Broadmoor. Anne Dargenio said she had fun in Chamber Singers "because the music and atmosphere were different from those of any other choir."

Concert Choir Bubbles With Enthusiasm

Concert Choir is Air Academy's largest singing group and consists of a mix of male and female students. Admission to the class does not require an audition, but is based on enthusiasm and the desire to perform. The choir performs three concerts a year and will do additional outside performances when requested, according to music teacher, Mrs. Pam Longo. The class is an opportunity for students to train their voices and learn music fundamentals as they practice a variety of musical styles.

Bands Provide Spirit And Entertainment

Led by band director, Larry Perkins, the students in the AAHS band developed and enhanced their musical skills. "We had a lot of new members this year," said Mary Jo Morin, band secretary. There are four bands that specialize in different kinds of music — Marching Band, Jazz Band, Pep Band, and Concert Band. Concert Band is the main band, and the Pep, Jazz, and Marching Bands are selected from Concert. The different bands have many varied activities. The Jazz Band went to a jazz festival in Manitou Springs and performed at basketball games and a few concerts. Marching Band performed at every football game, providing spirit and entertainment, while the Pep Band performed at winter games. Concert Band activities included going to state concerts and competing in a state solo concert. Throughout the years the bands have represented and supported many AAHS programs. This year, the band has received 16 superior awards at state music contests, and during 1980-81 the band was chosen as having one of the top 100 outstanding band programs in the country. "Again this year the band represented the excellence and pride of Air Academy High and strove to maintain the Kadet tradition," said Mr. Perkins.

Jazz Band Keeps Tempo

This year's Jazz Band was very busy with many new pieces to learn and many performances to give. The band played in several jazz competitions, including the Manitou Jazz Festival and The Doherty Jazz Festival. They also played at the Broadmoor Auto Show, the International Reading Association, and at the high school for graduation. This band is open to all who play a band instrument and are willing to put forth the effort to learn the artistic form of jazz performances. In addition, members of the Jazz Band promoted school spirit by playing enthusiastically at games and pep assemblies and added flavor to the 1982-83 year.

The Air Academy Concert Band has had another outstanding year, according to Mr. Larry Perkins, Band Director. The seventy-two members demonstrated excellent musical talent and an ability to perform as a unit. The Concert Band received sixteen superior ratings and came out on top again. In the contests the band attended, they often recieved a one, which was the highest score possible, on their performance. They also attended a festival in Denver this spring and ended the year on a good note. As trumpet player Rick Hubany summed it up, "We had a good year."

Students Express Creativity

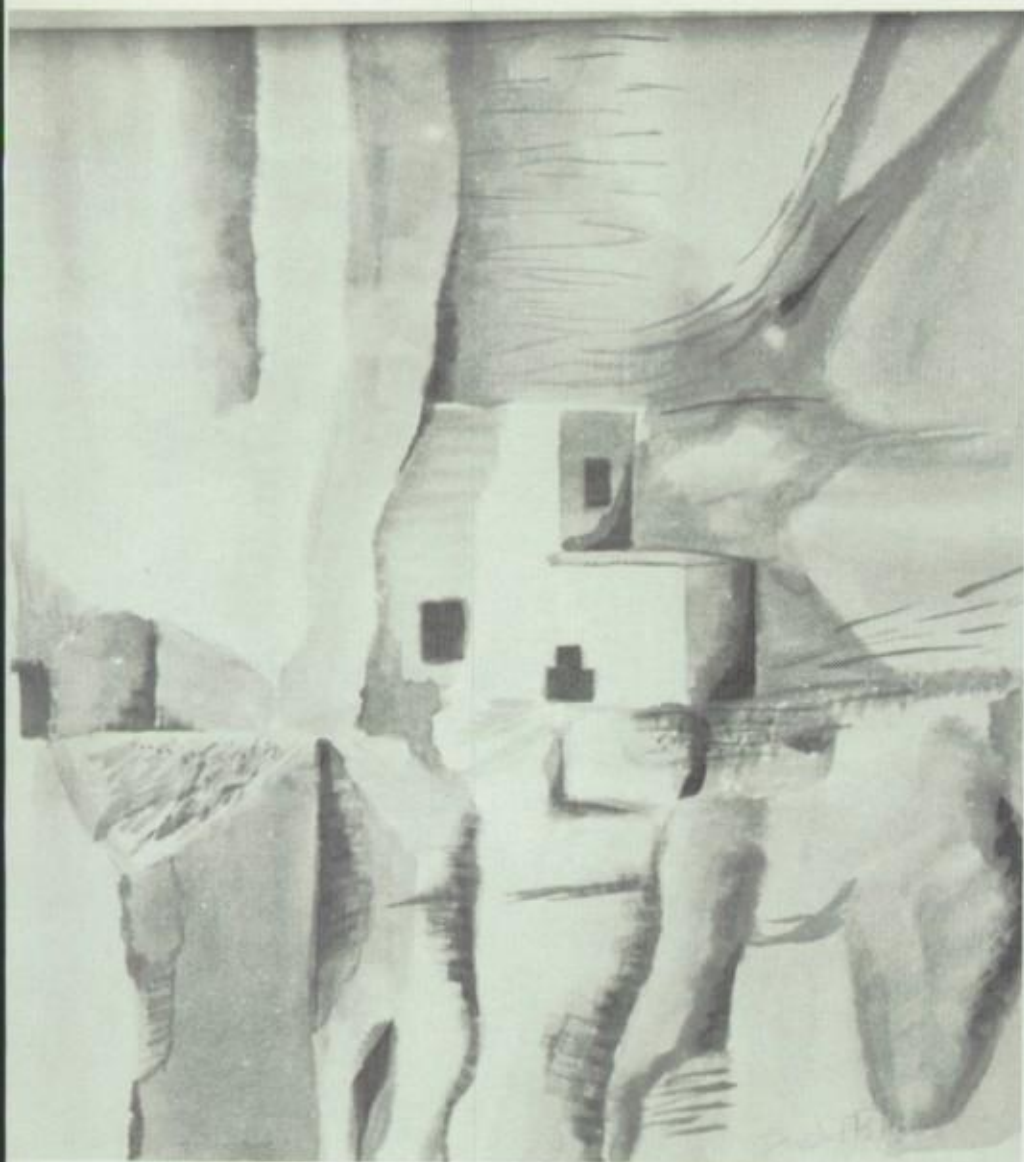

The art department at Air Academy was smaller this year than it has been in past years. The faculty decreased from three full-time teachers to one full-time teacher, Mrs. Green, and another teacher who spent half of her time at Air Academy and half at Rampart. Despite the decrease in size, there was no decrease in talent. Some students participated in the Fine Art Center show in the spring, and one student, Jeff Richmond, won a certificate of merit in the Scholastic Art Contest.

This year the art department gave students many classes from which to choose, depending on their abilities and interests. Students took classes in general art, ceramics, drawing, and painting. Those interested in learning more about the field of advertising could take a class in commercial art. TAG Art gave students more freedom than any of the other classes. Students were encouraged to experiment with many styles and mediums and were always encouraged to try something new. Most interested students found an art class to suit them.

“Showcase” Takes On New Images

This year's “Showcase” was brand new and in many ways. Pam Longo, the director, was new to Air Academy but not to theatre. She has performed in many musicals, such as The Unsinkable Molly Brown. The name “Showcase Off Broadway” was also new. Many of the people involved were new to theatre, and they enjoyed it very much, according to cast member, Kristen Sverdrup. Tryouts started in early October, and practice was every afternoon after school until the final shows on November 19 and 20. Kyle Yergensen commented, “It was like one huge family. Everyone helped everyone else out.” The entire cast performed in the opening, the final act, and all other group productions, while some of the cast performed solos and duets. Performances were taken from musicals such as Cats, Molly Brown, and Company — all Broadway hits. “It was a lot of hard work but it really paid off when we put on the show.” said Kristen.

Administration Shows Off Brand New Faces

JULIE FAIRLEY

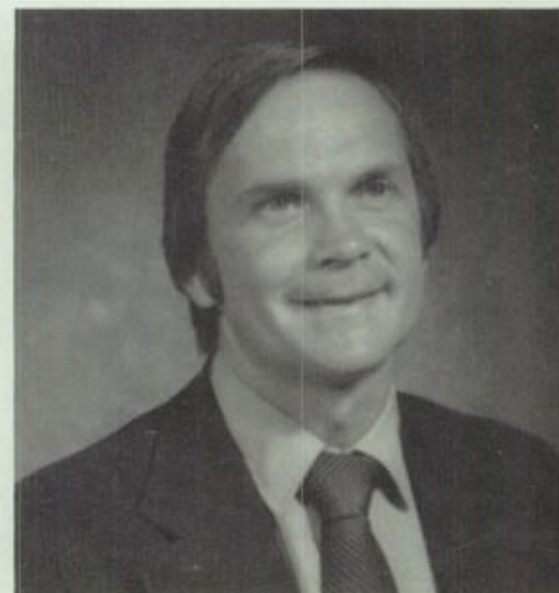

Julie Fairley has been principal of AA for four years. She is known for her Kadet school spirit, whether she's wearing skates to registration or supporting assemblies. "The words 'Air Academy' evoke an image in people's minds," she said. "It took 25 years to create that image, and I'm proud of it."

DON JOINER

Don Joiner has been our assistant principal for three years. "I have a strong belief that this school develops well-rounded students," he stated, "and that the administration helps in this by being a role model." In his spare time, Mr. Joiner likes to hike, listen to music, and play outdoor sports.

BERNIE LOONEY

Bernie Looney was very enthusiastic about his first year as assistant principal at AA. "I really enjoy being here," he said. "I'm taking a very personalized approach toward each student's education." Mr. Looney enjoys doing "people things," and AA students are some of his favorite people.

JIM BARRON

This was Jim Barron's first year as administrative assistant at Air Academy. "There is a great spirit of tradition here," he said warmly. "It is a privilege to be part of an administration team which strongly believes in young people." When he's not at school, Mr. Barron likes to read books and run.

ELMER LAHNERT

Elmer Lahnert has been athletics director for 18 years. He has four children who graduated from AA. Though he spends a lot of time hunting and fishing, Mr. Lahnert takes his job seriously. "The administration's job is to unify the students and the staff and carry on the past traditions of AA," he said.

PAUL ANGELICO

Paul Angelico has been activities director for four years. He is a bachelor who enjoys skiing and likes to work on cars. He sees the split between AA and Rampart as very beneficial. "I think the addition of ninth graders was a real positive influence this year," he said. "They add a lot of enthusiasm."

The District 20 school board solved many new problems this year. Led by President Mary Bush, they fought inflation and strove to deal with financial problems. The school board proudly opened a new high school, Rampart High, and each member worked towards the goal of making District 20 the best district possible.

The District administration is composed of Dr. Bruce Snyder, Mr. Cal Craig, Mr. David Eberhart, Mr. Steve Pratt, Dr. Thomas McCord, and Dr. Thomas Crawford.

Widening Horizons

Widening student's horizons by providing services and materials to the teachers and students is the goal of the Library Media Center, according to Mrs. Lucy Wilson, Library Media Specialist. "Our purpose is to provide books and materials which will enable students to broaden their education and give more meaning to learning," she said. To further encourage student learning, the Library Media Advisory Committee "Sharing the Caring," exists to improve the LMC. It is composed of an administrator, parent, LM specialist, students, and teachers. Besides providing library orientations, the LMC also offers resource people for classrooms, films, and audio visual equipment. In the future, there are plans for a computerized system to "allow students to find materials using technology," said Mrs. Wilson.

Change was the name of the game at Air Academy this year, and the Counseling Center was no exception. There were lots of new looks in the counseling office. Joan Marsh took over as chairperson of the department, and new members Genie Losiewicz and Mike Seely were added. The counseling office itself took on a new dimension with the addition of the career center. AAHS promoted career education complete with computerization, and career information was available in over 300 fields to students, teachers, and counselors. In addition to career counseling, AAHS counselors worked to support the advisement program, which is alive and well in its third year. Counselors made the difference for many students at Air Academy. They left their special mark on a special group of people, the students and teachers at AAHS.

Ever wonder how many things at AAHS get done so quickly, efficiently, and quietly? It was a well-kept secret this year, as it has been in years past, that the secretaries are the key to many of the good things that happen here. It would have been a difficult task to have assembled a finer group than the twenty-year veterans at AAHS and the newcomers on the staff this year. All served with dedication in the main office, attendance office and counseling office. Seldom, if ever, was a teacher or student in need of assistance turned down. Excellence was and is the standard for secretaries at AAHS.

PEAK gave students an alternative to the standard high school program at AA. Both Air Academy and Rampart students participated in this unique school within a school. Students in PEAK became a closely knit group by attending core academic classes together in a small group on a daily basis, and making outdoor education an important activity. Every PEAK student this year left the campus at least once for an experience many had never had before. This was a three day mountain trip which included activities such as hiking, mountain climbing, and skiing. Mike Parent, PEAK Director, coordinated the efforts of a group of teachers who worked this year to help students in core classes. In addition to regular teaching duties, PEAK teachers work with their students on an individual basis in order to achieve the goal of maximum development of potential.

Each year the National Merit Scholarship Corporation sponsors the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test for juniors. Juniors who do well on the PSAT/NMSQT are eligible for National Merit scholarships, and the corporation sends the names of high scorers to colleges all over the country. This year Air Academy had three National Merit Semi-finalists, Melissa Brown with a score of 207, Rick McMullen with a score of 204, and Christie Cooper with a score of 198. Air Academy also had five students who received commendations, Cynthia McCarthy, Melody Harris, Pat Forde, Doug Edwards, and Rob Culbert.

Students Excel In Academics

The tutoring program was stronger this year than any year in the past. Although the responsibility of tutoring students in need of help usually falls to National Honor Society members, this year any interested student was allowed to participate. "We had more students involved this year than ever before," said Marty Morin, tutoring director. The program was a tremendous success, despite the problem of a lack of tutors and an overabundance of students in need. "It was a learning experience for both the tutor and the tutee," said Melissa Brown, a senior tutor.

Novice Journalists And Photographers

The 1982-83 Vapor Trails staff consisted almost entirely of students lacking yearbook experience, but with enthusiasm and dedication the staff developed a myriad of yearbook and journalism skills. "I loved being on the yearbook staff," said Melissa Brown, copy editor. "It was a great experience." "We put out an excellent book," Marty Morin, academics editor, said proudly. With twenty people who had never worked on a yearbook before, the two experienced members had their hands full. However, after the first deadline, things began to run more smoothly. Under the direction of adviser Linda Kroll and co-editors Monica Ciletti and Julie Bartos, the staff worked rapidly to finish the pages for each deadline.

"Most of us put in a lot of extra time — especially weekends and after school," said Debbie Miller, yearbook business manager. Although the yearbook staff began as novices, journalism skills were developed through hard work and dedication. This year the Vapor Trails staff had the assistance of their own photographers. Photography, taught by Mike Burns, was a first-time class. New equipment aided the students, most of whom had little or no experience with a camera. "Our main goal," explained Mr. Burns, "is to train more photographers for next year." Although the class began with little experience, much talent showed itself as the year progressed, and the photographers turned out quality pictures.

The practical arts program consisted of several different business, home economics, and industrial arts classes. The Home Ec department, headed by Sheryl Hicks, offered classes in foreign cooking, creative baking, advanced cooking, sewing, and "batching it." Batching it was a combination cooking-sewing class designed for students headed toward life as bachelors or bachelorettes. The industrial arts department included classes in woods, auto mechanics, drafting, and photography taught by Mike Burns, Glenn Peterson, and Reggie Slavens. Max Stucky, Cathy Whaley, and Leah Black taught a variety of business classes such as accounting, business principles, typing, office principles, shorthand, and notehand.

The Right Highlights • II

Foreign Students Expand Horizons At AAHS

This year Air Academy had three exchange students: Neyvan Pecanhuk, a native of Brazil, and Satu Pohjola, a native of Finland, came to Air Academy through the American Field Service. Another foreign student, Pernille Larsen of Denmark, was here with the American-Scandinavian Exchange. AFS was created by ambulance drivers in World War II. With the Sanskrit saying, "Walk together, talk together, all ye people of the earth: then and only then shall ye have peace," in mind, they believed that if people from different countries met, war would cease. Mrs. Saunders, one of the sponsors, estimated there were about 50,000 students involved in AFS throughout the world and 112 foreign students in Colorado. However, only one Air Academy student, Lesli Bourassa, went abroad. She traveled to Germany where she became 'eine Deutsche Studentin.' The foreign students who became Air Academy students this year were involved in many activities and all commented on the highlights of their year. Neyvan said that he enjoyed all the activities of the school, like Homecoming, and he believed, "the most gratifying thing is going to be graduation." Pernille exclaimed, "I really enjoyed intramural volleyball!" Satu mentioned, "I enjoyed Homecoming very much, and I'm having a great year."

During the year, Neyvan enjoyed the activities of the International Club.

This winter several new members were initiated into National Honor Society and Student Council. The 23 new NHS members were responsible for planning a dance and/or a bake sale. In Student Council, students who wished to be on council were given a chance to appear in front of a selection committee. According to Paul Angelico, Council advisor, "The 17 new student council initiates have added a lot of life and new ideas to Council."

AA Students Work For The Right Pay

Many students at Air Academy took on the heavy responsibility of having jobs this year. Jobs can interfere with many things, such as homework, sporting events and extra-curricular activities. Joe Lepine stated, "the experience I've had will be very rewarding for my future goals in my career." But learning new skills, coming in contact with new people and new environments, the students became knowledgeable in the working field. "Working is a great experience," said Ken Oleszek, who works at Coney Island in Chapel Hills Mall. The experience gained by these students will be beneficial for them in the future. Students are looking towards the future and thinking of the many expenses that come along with furthering their education. Having been employed early will help when the time comes for other jobs.

Hopefully, Scott Pennell enjoys working with animals. His job at Pet City requires him to spend many hours working with a variety of pets.

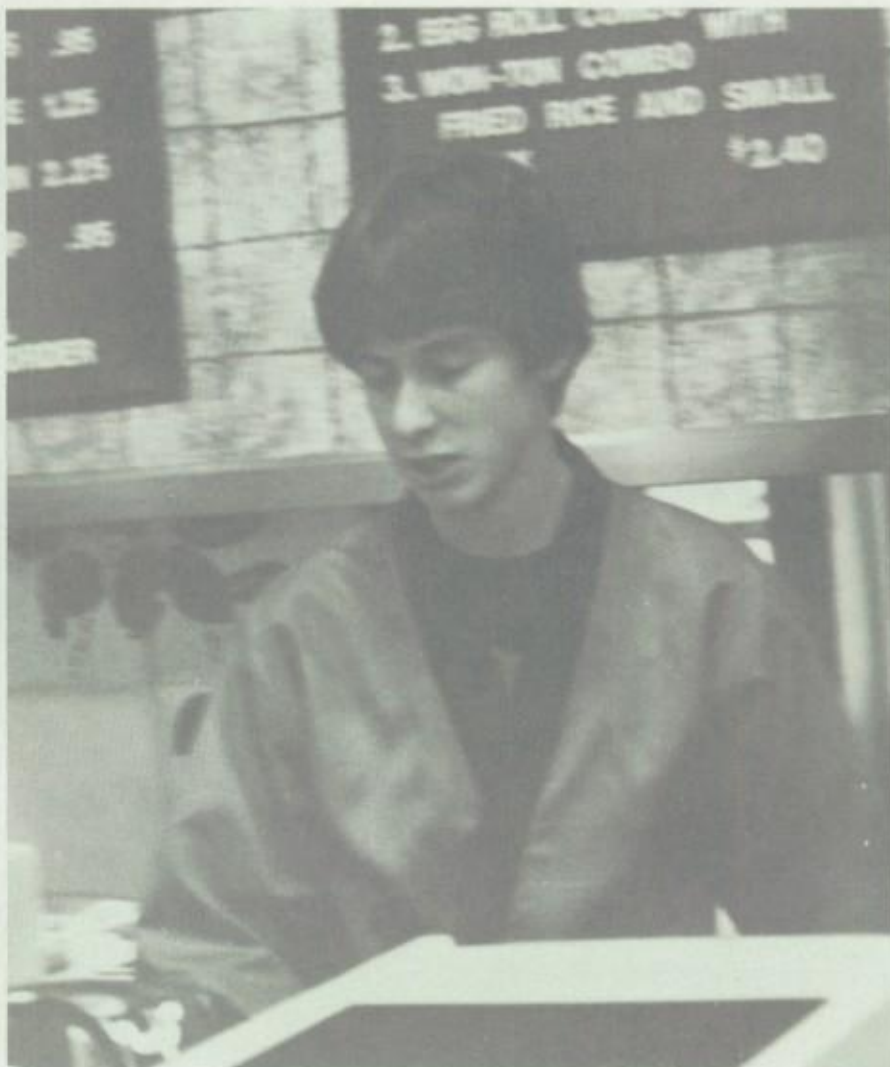

Working at One of a Kind Pizza means that Wendy Colby spends her time serving the hungry crowds at Chapel Hills Mall.

After the secretaries leave at 2:30 p.m., Lisa Kline takes over in Air Academy's main office, answering telephone calls and taking messages.

Ken Oleszek prepares a hot dog for a customer while working at Coney Island, in the Chapel Hills Mall.

Working at Wok-n-Roll in the Chapel Hills Mall, Todd DeBerry finds his job an interesting experience.

Joe Lepine stocks merchandise on shelves, as one of the duties required by his job at Target.

Assisting one of the many customers at Foxmoor, Lisa Kohles is familiar with the fashions of today.

Talented Air Academy Students Stand Out In A Crowd

Stacie Bourgeois poses in her Miss Teen Colorado attire last summer. Stacie's reign will end when she passes her crown and title to her successor in June, 1983.

"Top of the Nation" Honor Band 1983 is Bill Munson, Suzanne Snizek, Peter Flanders, Adrienne Hall, Kim Williams and Sandra Widseth. These eight students were selected through an audition to serve as members of the "Top of the Nation" Honor Band. Over 600 students auditioned from 65 high schools in Colorado. Alternates were Mary Jo Morin and Carrie Burkhart.

Sophomore Stacie Bourgeois was crowned Miss Teen Colorado at the State Competition on June 28, 1982. She was selected from a field of fifty teenage contestants who entered the competition by submitting a personal photograph and background information.

Freshman Jeff Richmond was awarded a Certificate of Merit in the Scholastic Art Contest. He entered a sculpture of a fiddler, and his piece of art was one of the two hundred chosen from 2500 entries statewide. His work was on display for the month of January at the University of Denver.

Senior Dana Smith made All State Choir. She prepared a song to present in front of judges at Fort Collins in February. The judges rated her with a score which was high enough to make the choir.

Left, senior Julie Bartos, sophomore Dana Hedin and freshman Diane Hedin tried out for the National Team Handball Team December 27-31, 1982, at the Olympic Training Center in the Springs. They qualified to appear in the National Tournament in Washington D.C. in May.

Exciting headlines involving politics, sports, fads, and international, national and local affairs hit the newspapers during the past school year. In Colorado Springs, the building of three new malls and the opening of Rampart High exemplified a great deal of city growth. In December, the city was lambasted by the worst blizzard in 50 years. Thousands of dollars were spent repairing damage, removing snow, and paying workers for holiday overtime. Another local headline this year was the Air Force Falcons' victory over Vanderbilt in the Hall of Fame Bowl. In the NFL, a player-owner deadlock left many Monday Night Football fans with empty Monday nights. The strike was resolved in time for the Super Bowl, and the Washington Redskins beat the Miami Dolphins to win the

Cupid's Arrows Strike Brand New Hearts

Scott Hall delivered arrows of love on Valentine's Day.

"The Valentine's Dance this year was probably the best in four or five years," said Student Council adviser Paul Angelico. Instead of having the dance after a basketball game, the Sophomore Class Council decided to have the Valentine's Dance on a Saturday night. With DJ Roger Miles, the traditional semi-formal dance with both kings and queens brought between 150 and 200 people to the big gym. Reigning over the event were Senior King and Queen Jeff Runnfeldt and Emily Mattice. Also reigning were Scott Hall and Lucy Ciletti, Junior King and Queen; Randy Prock and Stacie Bourgeois, Sophomore King and Queen; and Steve Kusulas and Krissie Burshnick, Freshmen King and Queen.

Emily Mattice and Jeff Runnfeldt are pleased they won Valentine's Queen and King.

Legs + Looks + Talent + Personality = "Mr. A"

Scott Gilbert, Greg Somerville and Scott Hall demonstrate their hula dancing skills.

Pat Forde and Bill Butler exhibit an intricate move during their ballet number.

This year the first annual "Mr. A" contest was introduced. Thirty male students and teachers were nominated by the student body, but after a period of penny voting, the number was cut to eleven. Then the eleven remaining candidates appeared at the pageant on the night of February 16 to reveal their legs, looks, talents and personality. So that the judging would not be prejudiced, four female teachers from various high schools judged the contest. Singing, acting, hula dancing, and poetry reading were a few of the acts presented by the pageant nominees. The winner of the "Mr. A" contest was Jeff Runnfeldt, with Scott Hall as first runner-up and Bill Butler as second runner-up.

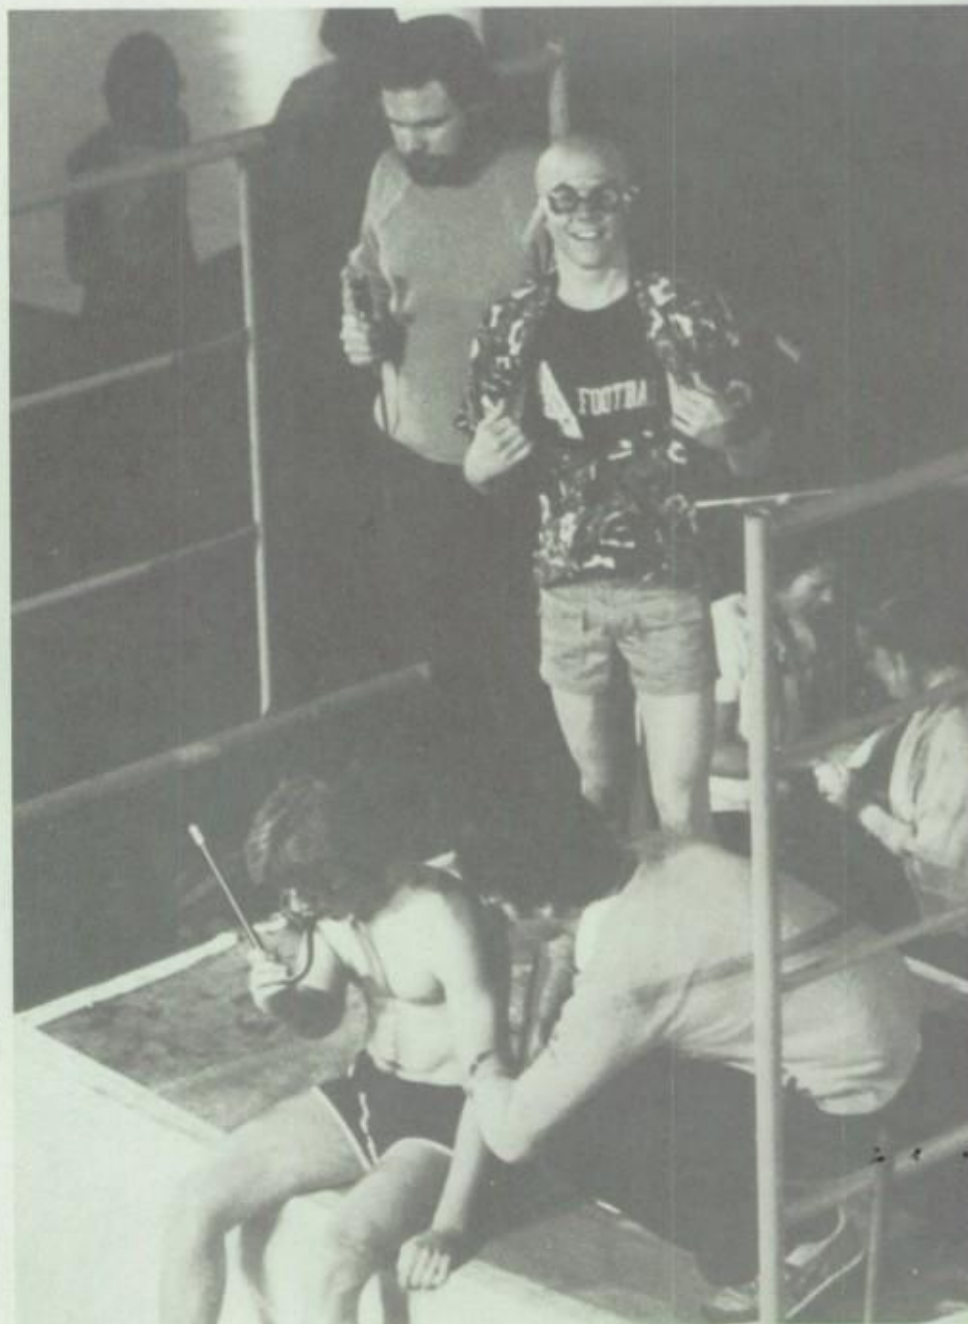

Mr. Dobbs gives his version of "Elvira."

Students Participate In Winter Activities

This year the winter months were kept exciting by several different activities. In January, students participated in an intramural volleyball tournament. Also, many students were involved in the "Gelatin Jump," sponsored by radio station KILLO 94. This gooey event, which took place at the Chapel Hills Mall, required students to jump into a four foot tub of jello in search of a key to open a prize box. Students also attended basketball and hockey games, wrestling and swim meets to support their school and seek entertainment during the winter.

Right, Erika Schiller climbs out of a tub of slimy green jello.

In Memory Of Jim Newell

Senior Jim Newell died as a result of a motorcycle accident on November 3, 1982. He was a member of the National Honor Society, Mountaineering Club, Photography Staff and a very active member of the Civil Air Patrol. In the picture above, Jim is standing in front of a plane that he and his father built, which was used to take the aerial picture of the Air Academy High School campus shown below.

"Jimmy's happiness and smile were so special! He worked hard at his studies and hobbies-cycles and planes. His airplane was a vehicle through which he could reach something higher than himself. Now he's gone where men are at peace with God. He lives afar." Mr. and Mrs. Tom Newell

After looking through the 1983 Vapor Trails, we hope that it has brought back memories of the year Air Academy developed a brand new identity. Air Academy asserted this new identity by establishing new traditions, such as having a new rivalry with Rampart, being a four year school, giving the 'Kadet of the Week' award and changing "Montage" to "Showcase."

Since the construction of Rampart High School, Air Academy has developed into a smaller but more united student body. Rampart has become both our archrival and sister school, making all activities between the two schools very competitive. This year also marked the first addition of a freshman class to Air Academy High School. Many freshmen were involved in sports and activities, either as spectators or participants. Troy Reimers became the first freshman to receive a varsity letter for his accomplishments in golf. Several other freshmen received their varsity letters in various sports and activities. To recognize the outstanding students of Air Academy, the 'Kadet of the Week' award was introduced by the Student Council. Each week a different student was brought to the attention of the student body by displaying his or her name and accomplishments in a showcase near the cafeteria. Also in the 1982-83 school year, the fall musical production, formerly known as "Montage," was changed in name and content to "Showcase." Other new traditions, the "Mr. A" contest, the semi-formal Valentine's Dance and the Generic Party were started, while old traditions lived on. Again this year, Morp, Prom, and all the regular senior activities were part of the social schedule.

We hope the memories of these events, captured in Vapor Trails, will form a lasting impression of Air Academy ... The Right Brand.

STUDENT AID.

It takes more than brains to go to college. It takes money. For tuition, room and board, and books.

The Army College Fund is designed to help you get that money for college while serving your country.

If you qualify, you can join the Army College Fund when you join the Army. For every dollar you put in, Uncle Sam puts in five. Or more.

So, after just two years in the Army, you can have up to $15,200 for college. After three years, up to $20,100.

To get your free copy of the Army College Fund booklet, call or visit your local Army Recruiter. It could be the most important book you've ever read.

Jenny -
I am really glad that we met and got to know each other 1st semester. Although we didn't have a class together this last semester, I am glad that our lockers were near so we could say "Hi," etc.

I hope that you have a great summer. I still plan to go back east to Virginia... look me up if you are ever there. Good luck and Take Care -

Jenny,
 Well, are we awesome on what? We really showed the school, it just took them awhile to realize how great we are. It's really been fun playing with you for the past two years. Good luck in college and your future love, friends & soccer always,
 Krysten
